Two views of James H. Doyle in court sketched by Artist Moynihan.

I never told Harding that I would help him in the Fall campaign for voting for the loan bill—From testimony of Superintendent Doyle.

DOYLE NOT GUILTY

Jury Out Only a Few Minutes in Case of Superintendent of Streets, Accused of Attempting to Improperly Influence Votes in Favor of Loan Bill.

The jury which has heard the evidence in the case of Superintendent of Streets James H. Doyle, who was charged with attempting to improperly influence votes in connection with the passing of the loan bill, went out at 11:15 to-day.

AT 12:04 the Doyle jury came in with a verdict of not guilty.

Before they were given the case by Judge Raymond the jurymen listened to arguments by Attorney Daniel H. Coakley, counsel for Mr. Doyle, and Assistant District Attorney Felix McGettrick. Mr. Coakley scathingly arraigned Councilman Charles T. Harding for the evidence he had given in the case.

There was even a larger crowd than usual in court when the arguments were being made.

Says Word "Liar" Warranted.

Mr. Coakley said:

"The government's case is Harding. You saw him and heard him. How many times did he contradict himself on the witness stand? If Harding is not to be believed, the government's case falls to the ground. Is he to be believed? Can you trust his testimony in any particular? Is he a liar? My language at times throughout this argument is bound to be emphatic. I propose to call spades spades, and I feel that you will say that the testimony in the case will warrant me in using the word 'liar' not once, but many times.

"Who says Harding is a liar? Lieutenant Lee, Moran's sleuth, who was sent upon the mission to get evidence to convict somebody of crime, tells you Harding is a liar. He tells you that Harding said to him that on the night the vote was taken on the loan bill no one asked him to vote for the bill. He tells you that Harding told him that no one had offered him inducements of any kind to vote for the loan bill. He tells you that Harding told him that he had not been asked by Doyle to vote for the bill specifically, and he tells you that Harding told him that he had not exchanged a word with Doyle on the night the loan bill passed.

Denounced by Draper.

"Under oath Lee told God's truth, though it ruined the government's case and stamped Harding as a liar and a perjurer.

"Charles M. Draper—you heard him. Harding says he was present when Doyle asked him about the loan bill. Harding says Draper asked him to vote for the loan bill. Harding says Draper pushed him over toward Doyle, and then Doyle asked him to vote for the loan bill. Draper says Harding lies. Draper, whose face tells you what he is—an honest, high-minded, high-class young Republican—says Harding is a liar.

"Compare him (Draper) with Pierce, Pierce the ambitious enthusiast, hoping to gain political preferment at the expense of an honest man, Doyle; this, Harding's estimate of Pierce, not mine. Denounced by Harding as having added to the story which Harding admits he told Pierce, Pierce dares to face it through. Pierce—the man who says that Harding is a liar when Harding says that the District-Attorney did not use profane language to him—that same Pierce dares to tell you that he believes Harding when he contradicts Doyle.

"Now there's Inman. What possible object has Inman to lie? Inman says Harding lies. Inman says Harding told him after he had left the District Attorney's office that Doyle had not offered him financial assistance. Harding swears he never made that statement to Inman. One of them perjured himself on the stand. Which was it?

Who Tells the Truth?

"Quirk, the reporter, says Harding told

SCORES DIE AS FLOOD DEVASTATES MALAGA

SPANISH CITY IN RUINS AS RAGING RIVER OVERFLOWS ITS BANKS.

MALAGA, Spain, Sept. 26.—Hundreds are dead and great destruction has been wrought here by floods following torrential rains and an appalling cloudburst. Malaga and neighboring towns are devastated and half in ruins. Churches, bridges and houses collapsed, killing a large number, in addition to those who perished in the floods.

The Guadalhorce river, which flows into the sea six miles from here, swept over its banks yesterday morning and horror upon horror has followed. Corpses are being carried to sea by the raging waters. Many bodies have already been recovered. Entire families have been wiped out. Survivors are mourning their dead or missing.

Many families are homeless and a famine is feared. The authorities are organizing a distribution of provisions.

No Chance for Warning.

Reports received from several towns in the district show that the flood was very serious. A cloudburst occurred at midnight, and the river rose so rapidly that it was impossible to give a warning. The few police on the streets of Malaga did their utmost to rouse the inhabitants. They rang an alarm on the church bells and fired their revolvers. They also aroused boatmen who tried to row through the flooded streets and rescue people from the windows of their houses. This was made difficult and sometimes impossible by the water raging and swirling through the narrow thoroughfares.

The doors of the churches of St. Paul and St. Dominic were burst open by the flood, and the torrent poured through them, washing the chairs, altars and confessionals into the streets.

Bodies Float in Streets.

The doors and windows of many houses collapsed from the pressure of the water, which in some places was ten feet deep. Furniture was washed out and floated off. The bodies of drowned people and animals were seen floating among the debris. These scenes were followed by the collapse of several houses. Day revealed that railway bridges had been swept away, factories gutted, the streets terribly tangled with every imaginable domestic possession. The gas and electric works stopped, the telegraphs destroyed and the aqueduct wrecked, cutting off the supply of drinking water.

Similar accounts were received from Veles Malaga, Benamargosa, Campanillas and elsewhere. Thousands of persons are homeless. The damage is placed at several million pesetas. Late estimates place the number of deaths at 300. Senor Besada, Minister of Commerce and Public Works, is directing the relief operations. King Alfonso is hurrying to the scene of death. His Majesty is overwhelmed with sorrow by the great catastrophe, but hopes to carry comfort to his stricken people.

Malaga Famed for Wines.

Malaga is a city of 131,063 inhabitants and is the capital of the province of the same name in Andalusia, sixty-five miles east of Gibraltar. The city is built in the shape of an amphitheatre and is enclosed by mountains.

It has a cathedral with a spire 280 feet high and many imposing buildings. The harbor holds 100 merchant ships and can be entered in any wind. Malaga is believed to have been founded by the Phoenicians. It is noted for its trade in wines.

LAY DOUBLE TRACKS ON MAINE CENTRAL

BANGOR, Sept. 26.—This Summer the Maine Central has extended the double track from Newport to Etna, a distance of a little over eight miles. When this work is completed, which it will be in a short time, the Maine Central will have parallel tracks between Etna and Pittsfield, a distance of 15.5 miles. This double track is in one of the most congested sections of the road.

GRAND JURY'S PROBE IN 'PHONE GRAFT NEAR END

District Attorney Moran Calls During Session Behind Closed Doors.

That the Suffolk Grand Jury was reaching the end of its probe of alleged telephone graft was apparent at the Court House to-day when, for the first time in the week, the jurors were in session behind closed doors without a witness before them.

The Grand Jury appeared at the court-house at ten o'clock. The members went directly to their chamber. Only District Attorney John B. Moran called upon them. Mr. Moran was in the grand jury room a little more than half an hour. Then he returned to his private rooms and took up the routine affairs of the office. The Grand Jury was still in session two hours afterwards.

ACCUSED MAKES PLEA TO JURY

Judge Frederick Dodge, of the United States District Court, delivered the charge to the jury to-day in the case of Solomon Robitschek and Lawyer Bennet Silverblatt, who have been on trial for the past three days accused of attempt to blackmail the Salvation Army.

Previous to the arguments of opposing counsel the defendant, Robitschek, was permitted to address the jury. In a serious manner he told the members of the jury to consider him as an American citizen and as one who was endeavoring to do business with the Salvation Army in a legitimate way. He attempted to read from clippings three or four times, but Judge Dodge warned him that he must refrain from instructing the jury with newspaper reports.

On $8,080 Larceny Charge in Coal Deal

ARRAIGN KLOUS TO-DAY

Niver Coal Agent, Arrested in Providence, Faces Criminal Charges in Court Here.

Maurice H. Klous, agent for the W. K. Niver Coal Company, whose contracts with the city were scored by Attorney Michael J. Sughrue, counsel for the Finance Commission, appeared at the Municipal Court to-day, waiting to be arraigned on the charge of larceny of $8,080 from the City of Boston. Klous was arrested in Providence last night.

His counsel, Francis J. Carney, is seeking to secure a reduction of bail from $20,000 to $10,000. Klous was released last night soon after being taken to police headquarters in securities for the former amount furnished by his father, Louis Klous.

Tried to Dodge the Camera.

At the home of the coal agent, No. 119 Park street, Brookline, to-day, the most extraordinary precautions were taken by Klous to prevent his picture being taken. A private carriage was drawn up to the side entrance at 9 o'clock. The driver had instructions to move on the jump when Klous got into the conveyance.

At 9:05 a. m. two men, who looked like janitors, came out on either side of Mr. Klous. The coal agent had his hat pulled down over his forehead and a handkerchief was held to his face. With his two guards shielding him, he made a dash for the carriage and yelled to the driver to "go ahead."

The carriage dashed off to the court house, where Klous again had to run the battery of the cameras, and used the same means to prevent his picture being taken.

"Klous Has No Fears."

Klous did not attempt to conceal the fact that he was in Providence. He registered at the Hotel Dorrance under his own name and went about calling upon his customers in that city. Many people knew he was in the city. This is the explanation that was made last night by one of the officials interested in the case soon after the coal agent had left headquarters, released on $20,000 bail, furnished by his father:

"Mr. Klous remained away from Boston because the Finance Commission would not agree to allow him the privilege of personal counsel if he would respond to their summons.

"When, however, Mr. Klous learned that the city had started criminal proceedings against him, he conferred in Providence with his counsel, a New York lawyer, and then he awaited the coming of the Boston police inspector, who was expected and who had been informed that Mr. Klous was in Providence. Mr. Klous came to Boston willingly and without even a thought of extradition.

"He has nothing to fear, and the prospect of a trial on the charges against him does not dismay him.

"Expects Exoneration."

"It is quite possible that the defence of Mr. Klous may be found adequate to exonerate him. He certainly does not fear disastrous results to himself as the result of his arrest.

"Discussion by him regarding his case cannot be made at this time for obvious reasons."

There are two counts in the charge against Klous. In the warrant sworn out by Harvey D. Hudson, a clerk in the municipal court, Klous is charged with the larceny of $649.59 from the city on March 29, and the larceny of $7,362.54 on September 7.

Before the warrant was secured District Attorney Moran had a conference with Michael J. Sughrue, attorney for the finance commission, and latter Chief Watts and Superintendent Pierce were consulted by the county prosecutor. It was known three days ago that Klous was in Providence and to all appearances he was quietly waiting to see what action would be taken by the officials here.

Willingly Came to Hub.

After the issuing of the warrant, it was given to Inspector McGarr who knows Klous. McGarr went to Providence, and there saw Klous, so one version of the arrest says, bidding adieu to his New York lawyer, who was just getting aboard the train.

Counsel Francis J. Carney Tries to Secure Reduction of Bail from $20,000 to $10,000.

At any rate McGarr had no difficulty in making the arrest. He called in a Providence police officer, and they walked to headquarters with Klous. The arrested man immediately announced that he was ready to return to Boston without requisition papers. Officer and prisoner occupied seats in the smoker and chatted together on the way to Boston.

OIL RATINGS, FILED BY STANDARD, WORTHLESS

TRUST USED "IMAGINARY POINTS" IN INTER-STATE RECORDS, STATES PAYNE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A search is being made to-day by Frank B. Kellogg, counsel for the government in the suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, for "imaginary" points on the pipe lines of the Standard to which independent oil companies may pipe their oil under what is alleged to be a clever method of evading the law of 1906, making pipe lines common carriers and forcing them to publish their rates.

C. N. Payne, the pipe line expert of the Standard, when asked if Unionville, N. Y., was a desirable place for an independent to store his oil or market it, said he did not know.

"When I went to Europe last year there was no such place. When I came back it was on our maps," said Payne.

Kellogg forced from him the information that the schedules of rates filed with the interstate commerce commission were absolutely worthless to any one except the Standard on account of the naming of "imaginary points" as places of delivery.

"This is an open violation of the new law," said Kellogg to-day. "They contend that the law is not sound and I suppose this is their way of displaying their confidence in their belief. No independent has got the money or the time to bring suit to force them to pipe oil straight through from the fields to the seaboard.

"We are going right ahead and will have many more surprising revelations," added the inquisitor.

It is probable that an adjournment will be taken to-morrow until the middle of next week to allow John Milburn, chief counsel for the Standard, to go to Canton, Ohio, to attend the unveiling of the McKinley monument. McKinley died in his house at Buffalo and he is one of the monument commissioners.

DARTMOUTH IS FULL; 100 TURNED AWAY

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 26.—With the opening of Dartmouth College to-day a large number of freshmen who have complied with the college entrance requirements are notified by the college authorities that, owing to a lack of rooming and boarding facilities, it will not be possible for them to enter Dartmouth this Fall. About 100 of those who are qualified are barred from entrance.

AUTOIST IS FINED $10.

Charged with exceeding the speed limit while driving his car along the strandway at City Point, Albion W. Poole of No. 62 Cheever street, Milton, was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $10 by Judge Fallon in the South Boston Police Court to-day.

MACHINE CHOPS HAND.

MISS RUSSELL "DEAD BROKE," HOLDS AUCTION

ART TREASURES ON BLOCK

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—All the art treasures, house furnishings, bric-a-brac and curios that Lillian Russell collected in the golden days of her stage fame, are to be sold to the highest bidders by a public auctioneer. Within a week the palatial home in West Fifty-seventh street will have been completely dismantled and the singer will have left even before upon a tour of the road that her friends say "simply must be made to pay." Even the splendid house itself will be sold, though Miss Russell paid $75,000 for it, and often said she would live there until her death.

Miss Russell has been touring the country for several seasons, but her income has not been the commanding sum it was in the early days. Last year there was misfortune, to boot, in the non-success of her play in New York.

Busy at the Races.

It has been the immemorial custom of the actress to spend her Summers at the race tracks, and this year she has attended more races than ever before. During the earlier meets seldom a day passed that she was not seen at the course. Her adviser there in turf speculation was Jesse Lewisohn, himself a heavy player. For some time Mr. Lewiohn has been so ill that the actress has not been able to consult him with regard to her affairs.

This season she is starting out on tour very early—leaving on Saturday, in fact. She has been in Cincinnati, where her daughter Dorothy underwent an operation for appendicitis, and she may be absent when Auctioneer James Silo puts her much prized art work beneath the hammer's blows.

The specimens to be sold are said to be worth between $60,000 and $80,000. Mr. Silo and the sister of the actress will be in entire charge of the sale, but it is known that Miss Russell has given instructions that everything must be disposed of if the bidding is at all within reason.

$20,000 Replica for Sale.

Among the furniture that will be sold is the famous replica of the Marie Antoinette room in the Petit Trianon at Versailles. It cost Miss Russell $20,000 when she was at the height of her fortune and fame.

The porcelains consist of several rare specimens of old Minton, Coalport, Sevres and Daulton. Venetian glassware, Dutch delft ware, Bobelin tapestries, Aubusson carpets, a library of the drama, beautiful embroideries and East Indian rugs in great numbers are also to be sold.

And along with these will be "hammered down" the furnishings of Miss Russell's boudoir, done in Dutch marqueterie. These magnificent trappings were once made almost as famous by her press agent as was her latest popular song.

CZAR PREPARES TO WAR ON JAP

—J. Hamilton Lewis

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago, who has been in Russia on a secret mission for the department of the interior, got back to New York to-day and declared that Russia was preparing for another war with Japan.

"Russia is training her army so that the mistakes which happened in Manchuria during the last war shall not happen again," said Mr. Lewis. "She is rebuilding her navy, and all with only one purpose in view. That is war.

"But of equal importance is the spirit of revolution among the workmen and the farmers. They are slowly but surely working to control the army. They are enlisting in great numbers, and from what I gathered their purpose is to get the guns and the ammunition. When the proper time comes, they will be in control of the army and ready for a great fight now planned."

MOTORMAN SET FREE.

After hearing the story of the police investigation into the death of August Meikle, the old man who was run down and instantly killed by a Central avenue car on September 14, Judge Blossom in the Chelsea Police Court to-day dismissed the charge of manslaughter against Motorman Edward L. Conn.

him that Doyle had not offered him financial assistance. Harding swore on the stand that he never told him any such thing. Who is telling the truth? One of them perjured himself on the stand. Who is telling the truth, Harding, the man who Lee says is a liar, who Draper says is a liar, who Pierce says is a liar when he contradicts him, who Inman says is a liar and contradicts himself fifty times on the stand in your presence, or Quirk, the unimpeached, honest young reporter without interest?

"McCullough, Mooney, Norton, Baldwin, Sheehan, all say Harding is a liar; all say Harding was never in the ante-room at the time he says he was; all say he never spoke to Doyle at the time he says he did.

"Possibly the District-Attorney may have the brazen nerve, not courage, to ask you to find by your verdict that his co-worker Lee is a liar. He may ask you to find that Charles M. Draper, the unbiased Republican, is a liar; he may ask you to find the fake reformer Pierce is a liar. Will he tell you that Moran, who he did not cross-examine, is a liar? No I don't think that he will say that to you.

"What do you say, Mr. District Attorney, is Morao a liar, or is Harding?"

Final Plea to Jury.

"Mr. Foreman and gentlemen, a word and I am through. In the secrecy of the Grand Jury room on the unsupported testimony of this perjured wretch, Harding, James H. Doyle was indicted for a crime, for which, if convicted, he might be sent to State prison. Under our laws a defendant has no right in the Grand Jury room. He cannot be heard in his defence. He can have no information as to what takes place there. Although the District Attorney knew that Lieutenant Lee would flatly contradict Harding if called into the Grand Jury room, Lee was not called in. Why? Do you believe the Grand Jury would have indicted Doyle on the testimony of Harding if Lee had been called into the room and said to them: 'Gentlemen, although this man tells you this, to me, the emissary of the District Attorney, he said directly opposite.'

"Mr. Foreman, of course the government has no possible hope of conviction. The whole thing is ludicrous. Their only hope is that by hook or crook, by some favoritism or prejudice, they may find some one on the jury who will vote for conviction, and, thus causing a disagreement, break up the ignominious fall of the government. I appeal to you, gentlemen, not to let that happen."

DIAMOND FIND ONLY A DREAM

NASHVILLE, Ark., Sept. 26.—The Arkansas diamond bubble has burst. The boom which for three weeks threatened to make this State famous for its diamonds has exploded.

Dreams of money and riches are gone. Work has been suspended on the Huddlestone and Hess properties, which were said to be located on the crater of an extinct volcano and bubbling over with diamonds.

It is not definitely known whether this suspension is due to the exploiters of the mines believing that the diamonds already found were merely a pocket of gems or whether it is due to their inability to secure money to run them.

SHERIFF COLBURN OF WESTWOOD ILL

Deputy Sheriff Howard Colburn, sixty-five years of age, moderator of the town of Westwood ever since the town has been created and a director of the First National Bank of Dedham, is to-day seriously ill at the home of his niece, Mrs. A. H. Hodgdon of Maple place, Dedham, where he was taken last night from a Medfield car when he was stricken by a shock of paralysis.

FIND HERO'S BODY IN CHARLES RIVER

A hero of many rescues, John E. Moran of No. 15 Chambers street, drawtender at the Harvard bridge, lost his own life in the Charles River, while swimming. Moran's body was recovered to-day by the police of Station 16. He went out for his customary evening swim last night, and when he did not return in an hour search was started. The body was found near the bridge.

CANDIDATE OF LEAGUE WANTS JOINT DEBATE

Captain Bates, Running for Senate in 8th District, Challenges His Opponents.

READY TO MEET BOTH

Captain Thomas H. Bates, Independence League candidate for the State Senate in the Eighth Suffolk District, wants a joint debate with John F. Cusick, Democrat, and Tilton S. Bell, Republican, either or both of them. Captain Bates sent an identical challenge to-day to his two opponents.

"A joint debate," Captain Bates says in his letter, "is the best way to bring our respective merits before the people. Let us publicly present the reasons why the public should support us."

The Eighth Suffolk senatorial district is made up of Wards 20 and 21, Boston. It has 17,860 legal voters. Mr. Cusick, again the Democratic nominee, represented it in 1906, giving way this year to Thomas Leavitt. Bell, the Republican nominee, is at present an alderman.

The Eighth is waiting with a good deal of expectancy to see what Bell and Cusick will do with the Bates challenge. Captain Bates is a ready talker who has done a lot of open-air campaigning here and in the West. He is a man of great originality.

"Only one of us can be elected," he says to Cusick and Bell. "The voters of Wards 20 and 21 are entitled to the best. Let us meet them together, give an account of ourselves and the things that we stand for—and let the voters have their pick.

"Gentlemen, name your place and date."

'BE PATIENT, GIVE US TIME,' SAYS VAN ETTEN

Vice President Admits That Complaints by Shippers and Travellers Are Justified.

BLAMES TRAFFIC INCREASE

Admitting that the complaints of shippers and travelers on the Boston & Albany were at least partially justified, Vice-President Van Etten, at Springfield, as made promises that the roads shortcomings will be rectified. In his statement, he pleaded for time in which to make the necessary improvements.

"The only thing for the public to do is to give us time to do the work," said Mr. Van Etten, while Massachusetts patrons of the road are daily losing large sums and suffering great inconvenience because the Boston & Albany cannot handle their business.

"We cannot do it in a month, nor in a year," he said, so it appears that the complaining public will have to restrain its impatience and pocket its continued losses for some time to come.

"The traffic has increased to such an extent," he said, "that, while we can care for the usual amount and are keeping freight cleaned up nicely, an extra heavy rush is bound to cause a certain amount of congestion."

Shippers feel that this rush, as Mr. Van Etten calls it, came a long time ago and came to stay and that the railway should have made arrangements for its permanent accommodation, if it were to fulfill its duty as a common carrier.

Mr. Van Etten was not very candid about his promises for the betterment of the passenger situation.

"It will be improved," he said, "but more than that I am not at liberty to say." He added that if arrangements could be made, three through trains would be run each way between Boston and Chicago, relieving the delay at Albany.

He insisted that the New York Central had done well by the Boston & Albany, notwithstanding his admission of the serious shortcomings of the road. He said the road could draw any time it wanted to on the Central's 95,000 freight cars, but did not say why this is not being done.

HARRIS TRIAL OPENS; FACES DEATH CHARGE

Court Hears Testimony in Tragedy in Which Cunningham Was Victim.

MANY WITNESSES ON HAND

Louis Harris, of New York, a young man who was employed by one of the teaming firms whose men were on strike, is being tried in the Superior Court before Judge Raymond to-day, on the charge of murder in the second degree, in causing the death of Michael J. Cunningham, of No. 38 West Fifth street, South Boston, a union teamster, last April.

Harris is defended by Lawyer J. J. Feeley, who was attorney for the team owners during the teamsters' strike troubles. Assistant District Attorney McGettrick is conducting the case for the government.

Michael Cunningham was shot while on his way home on the night of April 25. At the corner of A and Binford streets several non-union teamsters got into trouble with a crowd. Two shots were fired. Cunningham fell with a bullet in his back. He died a few days later at the City Hospital.

Harris was indicted by the Grand Jury on the charge of murder in the second degree. He maintained to the police that he fired the shots in self-defence.

A large number of witnesses were summoned to appear for the trial. Captain Dugan and Medical Examiner McDonald are two of the witnesses for the government.

REPORT DROWNED GIRL'S BODY FOUND

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 26.—News was received here early to-day to the effect that the body of a young girl, answering the description of that of Miss Beatrice Penton, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Thomas B. Penton, who disappeared in the storm of last Saturday, while sailing with Guido De Angelis, had been found on the Long Island shore, opposite this town.

"I'll Challenge Again with 90-Footer," Says Sir Thomas

Refusal of New York Yacht Club to Accept First Proposal Was Expected.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Sir Thomas Lipton is not disconcerted by the refusal of the New York Yacht Club to accept his challenge for the America Cup, and announces that he is ready to challenge with a ninety-foot sloop.

Sir Thomas to-day declared he could not outline his future course fully until he received the complete text of the refusal of the Americans to meet him.

"I am disappointed over the refusal of my challenge. The New York Yacht Club has always been my very good friend and I have always been shown the greatest kindness and consideration by its members. Hitherto I have been refused nothing and it is evident that the new rules have caused the declination. Had I challenged under the usual internaitonal rule I believe I could understand the matter better, but I challenged under the newly-adopted rule of the club itself, which has officially characterized the ninety-footers as freak racing machines. And so I hoped that they would sanction a real race with real boats, manned by crack crews and skippers.

Will Race with Ninety-Footer.

"If the New York Yacht Club wants me to race with a ninety-footer, I will, of course, do so. However, I will never again race under the old rule. If they will race under their own new rules, I will build a boat in class II, which give us up to ninety-four feet on the waterline, and I have already asked Designer Fife to prepare plans and come here for a consultation. I will never again take a freak across the ocean, as it means risking the lives of all who sail on board. Then, again, all our leading designers here have absolutely refused to design me a boat under the old agreement."

Refusal No Surprise.

"This preliminary refusal of the challenge causes no surprise. In fact, we rather expected it. It does not mean, however, that there will necessarily not be a race next year. If we can secure just the slightest concession from the New York Yacht Club we are willing to race and we can build a 90-footer just as easily as we can a 68-footer. Sir Thomas hopes that the American yachtsmen will recognize this fact.

"The Royal Yacht Club will now open negotiations with the New Yorkers for modifications of the rules, and we hope that they will succeed. Of course if the club wants to adopt an absolutely irreconcilable attitude in the matter and utterly refuse to do anything but stand on the so-called deed of gift we will be powerless to do anything to 'lift the cup.'

"But we have strong hopes that this will not be so. English-speaking sportsmen without regard to their nationality are anxious for a race. They do not like to see the old mug you so gallantly won over here remain undusted and uncared for on a shelf in a safe deposit vault. Rather would they see the big schooners competing for it every year. And our principal desire is to encourage sportsmanship.

Hope for Concessions.

"So we feel that the Americans will not stand blindly on a technicality, but will make such slight concessions as will result in a race next year."

The feeling generally among the London yachting experts is that there will be a fourth Shamrock, and that the race will be boat for boat with all time allowances barred.

HERRESHOFF IS IN CONFERENCE WITH MORGAN AND ISELIN

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—For some days past regular trips have been made from Bristol by Mr. Herreshoff to Beacon Rock, the Summer residence of Edwin D. Morgan.

Yesterday Mr. Cochrane's steam yacht Alvina lay off the cove, and Mr. Herreshoff's steam yacht came down from Bristol and anchored close by. A conference took place later on board the Alvina. C. Oliver Iselin, Mr. Herreshoff and others interested in the New York Yacht Club, and for years prominent in the defence of the America's cup, took part in it.

POLICE SEEK MYSTERIOUS FIRE FIEND

Incendiary Held Responsible for Burning Down of Concord Barn.

CONCORD, Sept. 26.—The police of Concord are scouring this and adjoining towns in hopes of capturing a mysterious stranger who is believed to have been responsible for the burning to the ground early to-day of the barn of J. D. Goodale, near the Lincoln line. Mr. Goodale's loss is placed at $10,000, practically covered by insurance.

That the fire was of incendiary origin the police have little doubt. Several times in the dead of night recently Mr. Goodale has seen a man skulking around the barn, which was the largest Winter farm building in Concord.

Once, about two weeks ago, he telephoned the Concord police at 2 o'clock in the morning, but when officers arrived the man was gone. Several other times the dogs chased the prowler away. Flames were seen issuing from the loft of the barn to-day, but by the time the Concord firemen arrived on the scene the fire was beyond control.

BIG CHADWICK SECRET SOUGHT

PITTSBURG, Sept. 26.—Mrs. W. C. Jutte, widow of the wealthy Pittsburg coal man who committed suicide at Atlantic City, has filed a petition in court to have the deposition of Mrs. Cassie Chadwick in the case of Mrs. Jutte against F. N. Hofstott and J. W. Friend opened.

Mrs. Jutte brought suit against Friend and Hofstott to recover stocks and securities valued at over $1,000,000, which she declared were taken from her by undue influence.

A deposition of Mrs. Chadwick in relation to the case was taken in the prison at Columbus, read to the Court and sealed. It is now in the possession of Prothonotary Kirker, who refuses to give it up without a court order.

Here is shown a type of the new Lipton racer which he proposed to enter in the 1908 contest for the America Cup, the challenge for which has been rejected by the New York Yacht Club. The diagrams show how her plans would compare with the defender Reliance.

LIPTON CHALLENGE REJECTED BY NEW YORK YACHT CLUB

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—By an almost unanimous vote the New York Yacht Club has declined the fourth challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton for an international yacht race to take place in American waters during October 1908.

The salient reason given for this refusal is that the Baronet had failed to name any dimensions for the English yacht and that this failure is a violation of the conditions of the deed of gift of the America's cup, the trophy Sir Thomas has thrice striven in vain to win.

The outcome of the club conference was a vast surprise and a keen disappointment to many who had looked forward to an acceptance of Sir Thomas's challenge under the new rules. So insistent had he been that these new rules govern a future yacht race that it was deemed a foregone conclusion that his challenge would adhere strictly to the lines laid down by the international conference in London in January, 1906.

Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, chairman of the meeting, appointed a cup committee to convene immediately after the meeting and prepare a reply to the challenge. The cup committee, made up of Commodore Vanderbilt, J. P. Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Ed. Morgan, F. G. Bourne, Henry Walters, J. Rogers Maxwell and C. Oliver Iselin, held a session which continued long after midnight.

At one o'clock in the morning the special cup committee made public its reply. This cablegram explained the attitude of the club:

"Richard C. McMahon Smyth, Esq., Honorary Secretary of the Royal Irish Yacht Club, Kingston County, Dublin, Ireland:

"Dear Sir—At a meeting of the New York Yacht Club, held this evening, the challenge of the Royal Irish Yacht Club, forwarded on behalf of Sir Thomas J. Lipton, Bart., K. C. B., under date of September 13, 1907, for a match for the America's Cup, was laid before the club.

Ledyard Offers Resolutions.

"After a full discussion the following resolutions were offered by Commodore Ledyard, seconded by Commodore J. P. Morgan and unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, first, that the America's cup, held by this club as trustees under the deed of gift, is a trophy which stands pre-eminently for speed and for the utmost skill in designing, constructing, managing and handling the competing vessels, and should therefore be sailed for by the fastest and most powerful vessels that can be produced.

"Second—That no agreement for any match for the cup should contain any provision which detracts from the merit of the trophy representing those objects.

"Third—That no agreement should be made with any challenger which imposes any other limitation or restriction upon the designer than such as is necessarily implied in the limits of water line length expressed in the deed. Especially should no agreement be made requiring the contesting vessels to be constructed under any rule of measurement design, as is the present rule of the New York Yacht Club, to produce a vessel of a special and limited type.

"Fourth—That the importance of the event makes it desirable that contesting vessels should be substantially of the greatest power and size permitted by the deed of gift. Such vessels also furnish the most complete tests of skill in designing, constructing, managing and handling.

"For these reasons, matches for this cup should not be held between vessels of comparatively insignificant power and size. While the defending club cannot require that the challengeing vessel be of any size, so long as she is within the limits permitted by the deed of gift, it should not consent to any limitations upon the power or size of the defending vessel, other than such as imposed by the deed.

"Fifth—The New York Yacht Club is prepared to accept the challenge in accordance with the deed of gift, and to enter again into mutual agreement with any challenger similar to those which have governed match for this cup for many years past.

"It is also prepared to meet any qualified challenger in a series of races for this cup, to be sailed boat for boat, without time allowance.

Challenge is Unusual.

Sixth—The challenge of the Royal Irish Yacht Club fails to conform with the provisions of the deed of gift, under which alone the club can accept any challenge, in that it gives no dimensions of the challenging vessel, and in that it imposes new and special conditions about the size and type and power of the defending vessel. Moreover, it is of such a character that its acceptance would, in the judgment of this club, involve a complete abandonment of the object for which the trust in respect to the America's cup was constituted.

"Seventh—That a committe be therefore appointed by the Commodore, of which he shall be one, with instructions to decline, on behalf of the club, the challenge of the Royal Irish Yacht Club, with an explanation of the reasons of this club for its actions."

CHAPTER IV.

HAD my wire to our representative at Nome been intercepted by the gang that had threatened Miss Knowles? Had the answer been framed to cast suspicion upon her? Or was she a friend?

To me her knowledge of Alaska seemed to have been obtained at first hand; but I knew little of the country and therefore was not a capital judge.

But for the signature of Zara, or rather the name of Zara, to the mysterious message, I would have doubted her story from the first. And my doubt would have become a conviction on receipt of the reply from Nome. Knowing Zara's wandering habits and her nature, it seemed compatible both that she should be at Nome and should attempt to save the young girl from threatened danger.

Could it have been that Zara's name had been used for the purpose of securing protection for the girl by someone out there who knew me and yet dared not reveal his or her name?

I turned the whole matter over in my mind, on my way to the office the following morning. I was certainly in a maze of conjecture, out of which there seemed no way, as I rounded the little lake in the Common, heading for Summer street, passing the spot where I first met Zara.

So absorbed was I, indeed, that although I heard, I paid no attention to a hail from a bench as I passed, until a familiar, sardonic chuckle came to my ears and brought me up with a start.

On the bench where I had first seen him with Zara was the aged professor of drawing, through whom I had met Zara!

"And how is the Great Deductor?" he chuckled. "'Tis hard thinking as you're doing. Don't do it, my lad. The thoughtful are the thoughtless in time. Less thinking, more reasoning."

"Where is Zara?" I blurted eagerly.

He chuckled, wrinkling his old eyes until they seemed no larger than little jet beads.

Not Zara's Writing.

"'Tis Zara ye must have?" he inquired; "no one but Zara now a day, eh? Ay—it is good to be young."

"But where is she?"

"Zara is here, there and elsewhere, young man," he grinned. "What's the trouble?"

Briefly I outlined the arrival of my strange ward, the answer from Nome city, and the presence of Zara in Alaska. At last, he shook his head and became serious.

"She's not in the North," he said finally. "That I know."

"Then the message is a forgery," I cried, excited beyond measure.

"I'll not say that," he retorted, "till I see it."

"Of course," I agreed, handing him the message Miss Knowles brought. "I should have thought you would know her writing."

"Sometimes," he grinned; "take nothing for granted in this world and you'll ne'er be disappointed."

He examined the envelope with leisure contemplation and handed it back to me.

"Is it her writing?" I asked.

"'Tis not," he replied, slowly, and a moment later he signed to me to cease questioning, and curtly ordered me to seat myself at his side.

For half an hour we sat side by side, he apparently deep in thought, his old face in a thousand puckers and tucks.

At the end of that time he seemed to have come to a decision, for he rose to his feet.

"This is a serious matter," he said; "Zara must see to it herself. Do nothing until you see Zara."

To Be Continued To-morrow.

CONTEST CONDITIONS

THIS story will run through the week. The final chapter, in which the mystery will be solved, will be printed in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

The only day on which no instalment of the story will appear will be Saturday. The next to the last chapter will be printed Friday, and then everybody will have until 6 p. m. Saturday in which to solve the mystery.

The person who solves the mystery most accurately will receive the first prize of $50.

If no one solves the mystery accurately, the one who comes nearest to a correct solution will receive the first prize.

REMEMBER

That this is a test of SKILL IN THINKING, not skill in writing. All you have to do to win first prize is to THINK OUT the solution of the mystery QUICKER than somebody else. The literary merit of the answers will not be considered.

That in case two or more answers are equally correct, the prizes will be awarded ACCORDING TO THE POSTMARKS ON THE ENVELOPES, the one mailed first receiving the first prize, etc.

That persons living at a distance from Boston have just as good a chance to win prizes as those who live right in Boston.

NO ANSWER POSTMARKED LATER THAN 6 P. M. SATURDAY WILL BE CONSIDERED.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Arrangements were made by Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 last night for a special meeting next Monday at Wells Memorial building to receive the final reports from the employers regarding the new agreement, to go into effect on Tuesday. International President F. J. McNulty will address the meeting. Action will then be taken on the advisability of striking those firms which have not signed the agreement, which calls for an increase of forty cents a day for journeymen, fifty cents for helpers and the Saturday half-holiday.

The following grievance committee was chosen last night: Albert Lewis, Andrew Johnson, H. Eilenberg, J. Rice, D. Shea and H. M. Patten. Professor J. W. Wood and Albert Hixon addressed the members on the aims and objects of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics' Association School.

CARMEN'S DELEGATES REPORT.

Past Chief Carman P. J. Cronin and John J. Gallagher, delegates to the recent convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen of America, held at Chicago, reported at last night's meeting of Bay State Lodge that a movement had been inaugurated to form an international union of railroad employes, to include carmen, trainmen, conductors, and all crafts not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. A committee was appointed by the convention to meet at Kansas City next April for the purpose of classifying all railroad employes. At present the names for some of the crafts in various parts of the country vary, causing some confusion in the arranging of wage scales. P. J. Cronin was appointed a member of this committee.

The convention had arranged to meet in the Grand Pacific Hotel at Chicago, but on the discovery that there were 127 strike-breaking telegraphers lodged on the upper floor the delegates refused to hold their sessions there, despite all inducements. The Y. M. C. A. Hall on LaSalle street was then secured at an expense of $45 a day, the bill for all the sessions amounting to $1,800.

TRIBUTE TO TOBIN.

Engrossed resolutions of appreciation of past services were presented by Team Drivers' Joint District Council last night to Daniel J. Tobin, the retiring president. Mr. Tobin leaves for Indianapolis next Sunday to assume the duties of international president, to which office he was chosen at the recent international convention in Boston. On his departure he will be presented with a gold watch charm by the delegates and with a dress suit case by Team Drivers' Union No. 25. A large delegation will see him off.

William O'Neil of Local No. 25 was elected president to fill the vacancy. It was voted to have the executive officers of each local union attend the next meeting of the council.

MEETINGS TO-NIGHT.

Boilermakers' and Iron Shipbuilders' Union No. 431, No. 724 Washington street.

Bookbinders' Union, Paine Memorial Hall, No. 9 Appleton street. Report on eight-hour-day agreement.

Carpenters' District Council, No. 30 Hanover street. (Special meeting.)

Chelsea Central Labor Union, A. O. H. Hall, No. 202 Broadway.

Cigar Factory Strippers' Union, No. 11 Appleton street.

Ferry Department Employes' Union, No. 19 Border street, East Boston.

Hatters' Union No. 7, Wells Memorial building.

Hoisting and Portable Engineers' Union No. 4, Hollis Hall, Washington and Hollis streets.

Machinists' Lodge No. 264, Wells Memorial building. Election of business agent and smoke talk, with address by representative from [illegible] Institute.

(Secretaries are requested to notify the Labor Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, of any change in the time and place of meetings.)

LABOR NOTES.

Pattern Makers' Association last night reelected C. H. Clark treasurer for the ninth term, L. C. Powers recording secretary for the eighth term and S. M. Lein financial agent for the seventh term. The only contest was for vice-president, in which event F. E. Chaplin was elected. Past President W. A. Clough presented the union with a gavel made of wood from the frigate Constitution.

Reports from the recent international convention at San Francisco will be made at a meeting of Elevator Constructors' Union to-night at No. 995 Washington street.

A donation of $10 to the striking church organ workers was made by Musicians' Protective Union No. 1,020, K. of L., last night.

President Thomas P. Butler was nominated by Carriage and Wagon Workers' Union No. 9 last night for vice-president of the New England district. Robert Hungerford of Toronto was nominated for international president, and John H. Brinkman of Washington for secretary-treasurer. The election will be held by referendum.

Bookbinders' Union holds a mass meeting to-night in Paine Memorial Hall to receive reports from the employers regarding the request for an eight-hour day to go into effect next Tuesday.

Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' Union holds a smoke talk next Wednesday night at Wells Memorial Building, at which a reception is to be tendered Edward M. Kelly on his departure for Chicago to attend as delegate the international convention, which opens October 7.

BARS ENFORCEMENT OF FISHING LAWS

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 26.—An imperial rescript forbidding the service by any colonial authority of any legal process regarding fishery rights aboard any American vessel, and suspending all statutes which authorize colonial officials to seize American vessels for alleged fishery offences, has been proclaimed here. This, it is believed, will make it practically impossible for Premier Bond to carry out his recently announced decision to enforce the colonial fishery laws.

Pretty Girl Tells Story of Bold Robbery to Jury From the Stand To-day

Miss Dora Goldberg, victim of bold $2,000 robbery.

Freight Clerk, Charged with Crime, Declares It Case of Mistaken Identity.

Dora Goldberg was placed on the stand to-day in the Superior Court to tell the jury her story of the robbery of $2,000 in checks on Harrison avenue June 24, while she was on the way to the bank to make a deposit.

Charles J. Whalen, a freight clerk, is charged with having taken the money, but his lawyers claim it is a case of mistaken identity, for they declare the accused man was at work in South Boston at the time the robbery is alleged to have been committed.

Miss Goldberg has been employed as cashier by her father at No. 331 Harrison avenue, and, according to her story at the time of the theft, was walking along the avenue near Gloucester place when she was attacked, knocked down and her bag grabbed from her hand.

She also declared that she picked herself up and gave chase as far as the Hotel Madison, through which the thief bolted and escaped.

A great deal hinges on a black hat, which was found near the scene which it is claimed bore the initials "C. J. W.," and Miss Goldberg claims the man who attacked her lost his hat in the chase.

HISGEN TOUR IN WEST OF STATE BIG SUCCESS

LEAGUE LEADER ENTHUSIASTIC AT HIS RECEPTION BY THE "PLAIN PEOPLE."

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 26.—"Plain" Tom Hisgen, who expects that the Independence League of Massachusetts will name him for Governor at next Thursday's convention at Faneuil Hall, is home from a carriage trip through Berkshire, Hampshire and Hampden Counties, where he has been meeting the voters face to face.

"And I've been making votes, votes for Hisgen, votes for the League and votes for equal rights," the League candidate said to-day to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN before leaving for New York. "My only regret is that I did not begin this sort of thing three or four weeks ago.

"The voters are with me; the politicians are against me. I know that. Men who live by politics alone have got to be against me. I don't want them. Mr. Whitney and Mr. Gull dare welcome to them."

Reached Home at Night.

Unattended, talking to groups of men here and there and to the lonely farmer in his field, distributing campaign literature, "Plain Tom" drove his faithful "Kate" from Pittsfield through Dalton, Hinsdale, Peru, Huntington, Russell and East Chester. He left Pittsfield Tuesday morning and drove into the yard at home last night at 10 o'clock.

"The people seemed to be looking for me everywhere," said Mr. Hisgen, "and I was heartily welcomed. From my point of view, the trip was the best thing that could have happened. I mean to continue it.

"Now that it is over I say with more enthusiasm than ever, 'Give me the mass of people, and let the professional politician flock where he will.' The only people who rejected my advances were politicians of the sort that 'need the money.' Some of them were amazingly frank about it. I do not blame them.

Got Promise of Vote.

"When men were too busy to come out to the road to me I went right into the fields to them. In one such case I addressed myself to a man of sixty-five, who was born right there on the place and who has voted the Republican ticket since Adam was a baby.

"I found in a minute or two that his principles are the Independence League principals, and that he is glad to be with us. I brought away his serious promise of a vote.

"'In all these years, Mr. Hisgen,' he said to me, 'you're the first candidate that ever came out here to ask me for his vote. You shall have it.'

"I had many experiences of that sort, sometimes addressing from fifty to one hundred voters, and that's why I say that my way of touring is the best. The other fellows can go after them with bands."

OCEAN LINERS SLASH PRICES IN RATE WAR

Lowest Charges in Twenty Years Predicted if Agreement Is Not Reached.

CUNARD COMPANY BLAMED

That by October 15, if some agreement is not reached between the warring steamship companies the lowest rates in twenty years will be announced for passage between the Old and New Worlds, is the declaration to-day of one of the most prominent Boston steamship officials.

As it is steamship rates are more demoralized now than they have been for many years. Six of the largest and most important of the lines that operate passenger steamships between New York and European ports made slashing cuts in their first cabin rates yesterday and, contrary to custom, the eastward rate goes into effect at once while the westward takes effect on November 1.

Rate War Bitterly Waged.

For weeks the different steamship companies have been paring down the charges for passage, with the Cunard line taking the lead, but yesterday the French companies announced that after October 1 their crack steamer La Provence would carry first cabin passengers eastward for $65, and that La Savoie and La Lorraine will charge the same rates, while La Touraine will charge but $55.

Then came the announcement that the International Mercantile Marine had met the cut, and that the eastward rates would go into effect at once. On the American line the minimum is to be $50 to Southampton and $55 to Cherbourg.

The White Star now asks $57.50 on the Oceanic to Southampton, $52.50 on the Adriatic and $50 on the Majestic and Teutonic for first cabin passage.

The Hamburg-American announces first cabin on the Deutschland and Kaiserin Auguste Victoria to Cherbourg at $62.50 and to Hamburg $70.

Cunard Line Is Blamed.

"The rate war was precipitated by the Cunard company when it placed the turbiner Lusitania into commission," said the Boston steamship man to the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day. "Her minimum rate for first cabin was placed at $115, while the German boats of the same class were charging $140. The German companies asked the Cunard company to restore rates, saying, 'The people will pay, let's put it up again.'

"But the Cunard Company refused and then the rate war began in earnest with the Cunard Company leading and the Hamburg-American and the North German Lloyd lines following and the other steamship companies dragged into the fight whether they would or not.

"If some agreement is not reached by October 15, I expect to see the Cunard Company slash away at rates in a way that hasn't been seen for twenty years, when steerage rates got down to one pound sterling and other rates became proportionally low."

FINED $50 FOR SELLING CIDER

Convicted of selling cider by the glass in violation of the liquor law, Peter Perry of No. 88 Readville street, Dedham, was fined $50 by Judge Emery Grover in Dedham District Court to-day.

B. & M. PLANS FOR $6,000,000 LOAN ISSUE

The Boston & Maine Railroad Company issues a call for the annual meeting of stockholders, to be held at Lawrence, Mass., October 9.

Stockholders will be asked to authorize an issue of bonds to an amount not to exceed $6,000,000, to provide for the funding of floating debt, for the payment of money borrowed for lawful purposes, for the purpose of making additions to the equipment of the company, and for making permanent additions and improvements.

President Tuttle emphasizes the following paragraph:

"It is desirable that a quorum of stockholders be present or represented, and if you are unable to attend this meeting will you please sign the accompanying proxy in blank and return it in the enclosed envelope? All proxies received in response to this request will be used to retain the present board of directors and management."

FIRE REACHES DYNAMITE.

WELLESLEY, Sept. 26.—Fire last night from unknown cause in a shed off Central street spread to a small quantity of dynamite, which exploded and wrecked the building.

WILL OBSERVE FEAST DAY OF ST. MICHAEL

The St. Michael Society, composed of Italian Catholics of the North End, have arranged this programme for their sixteenth annual feast Friday. Friday morning, the Attanasio band of Brooklyn will parade through the North End. At 7 o'clock Friday night, solemn vespers will be sung in Sacred Heart Church, North square. A concert will later be rendered by the Attanasio band.

On Sunday, following a solemn high mass in Sacred Heart Church at 11 o'clock, the society will parade with the Attanasio, Marine and Visconti bands.

Monday night at 8 o'clock, there will be fireworks in North End Park. The celebration will end Sunday, October 6, with the production of "St. Michael, the Archangel," in St. John's Hall, Moon street.

TRUCK KILLS WOMAN IN NEW YORK STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Crossing Second avenue at Nineteenth street when traffic was heaviest, an elderly woman, while attempting to avoid a car, got in the way of a heavy auto truck of the Vacuum Cleaning Company, 427 Fifth avenue. It ran over her, crushing her skull and killing her instantly.

"SOUL BRIDE" NUMBER 2 AT HIRSCH TRIAL

MISS YEARGAIN IS ILL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A mysterious woman appeared at the hearing of the celebrated Hirsch affinity case before Magistrate Harris in the West Side court. The stranger said she had attended court only on curiosity. She was accompanied by a man and a woman, and appeared deeply interested in the proceedings.

According to Mrs. Hirsch, the mysterious visitor to the courtroom was a "Miss Johnson," who called her up on the telephone late the night before and said she had been deserted by Patrick Henry Hirsch several years ago.

"Mr. Hirsch," then continued the voice over the wire, "left me alone with a board bill for $145. I shall be in court to-morrow. My name is Miss Johnson, and you shall know more about me later."

Affinity Too Ill for Trial.

Miss Ruby Yeargain, the "affinity" who precipitated the present complications in the Hirsch family, was not present. She was too ill to appear, explained Dan O'Reilly, counsel for the husband. Mr. Hirsch was there, attired in a blue walking suit of immaculate fit, and did not appear to notice that throughout the proceedings both "Miss Johnson" and his wife were steadfastly watching him.

Lawyer O'Reilly was denied his motion to dismiss the case. He made it evident that Mr. Hirsch, who is the first man arrested under the new law imposing a prison penalty in "affinity" cases, would plead innocence on the ground that he had not seen Miss Yeargain since September 1, when the law went into effect.

Lieutenant Stephenson of the West Side Court squad, in telling how he served the warrants upon Mr. Hirsch and Miss Yeargain at the Warwick Arms, said:

Pleaded on Knees for Mercy.

"The door was opened by a negro girl, who directed us into a private hall. I thereupon walked into the room of Mrs. Yeargain, who said her daughter was in the room opposite. I found the door of that room was locked, but Miss Yeargain finally opened it when I told her that I had a warrant and would smash in the door if he resisted. She was partly dressed, and falling on her knees, she became hysterical in pleading for mercy.

"Later Mr. Hirsch came out of another room fully dressed. When I told the couple they would have to come to the station house, Mr. Hirsch said he would go on the condition that he could hire a cab. To this I agreed."

Frank Edgington, superintendent of the Warwick Arms, said he had seen Mr. Hirsch in Miss Yeargain's apartment several times.

Lawrence Dixon, a private detective, also testified.

'HARAHAN IS PARROT FOR HARRIMAN'

—Stuyvesant Fish.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—"I have more money to-day than at any time during the last fifteen years," said Stuyvesant Fish, who seemed amused to think that the open letter of J. T. Harahan, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, might give any one the impression that he is hard up.

Financiers throughout the country are interested in the probability of amazing developments and the relation of carefully guarded secrets, in the Fish-Harriman battle.

"That man Hanrahan is simply the parrot for Harriman," said Mr. Fish. "I would not dignify his letter by a reply, but I will continue right on after Harriman. They may start as many stories against me personally and officially as they wish, but just wait and see what is coming."

"Harriman was a bigger borrower from the Illinois Central than I ever thought of being," continued Mr. Fish: "yet now he tries to bring my loan against me as a fault."

Friends of Mr. Fish declare that his loss of the presidency of the Illinois Central, and that the later attacks that have been made upon his admission, are due to the determined stand he took on the part of the policyholders of the Mutual Life Insurance Company during the insurance investigation.

Charles A. Peabody is president of the insurance company, and he was also a director in the Illinois Central railroad. During the insurance investigations Mr. Fish refused to countenance certain acts of some of the insurance officials and his friends declare that on the evening of the day he differed with the insurance officials the matter of his loans from the railroad was made known to his enemies and a prompt demand made for payment.

SORE HANDS
Itching, Burning, Bleeding, Cured by Cuticura.
Soak the hands, on retiring, in a hot, thick lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment. Bandage lightly in old cotton or wear old gloves. This treatment is priceless for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough, and chapped hands, and for dry, itching palms and is equally effective for sore feet.

LEAGUE TICKET AT SOMERVILLE

George E. Gookin has just been doubly honored by the Independence League in Somerville, being the choice of his co-workers for the senatorial nomination in the Second Middlesex District and for the Somerville membership in the State Committee.

For the House of Representatives the League has made these other Somerville nominations:

Twenty-fifth Middlesex—Edwin H. Marks, William E. Dunning and Robert Luce.

The League in Somerville will send twenty-four delegates to the State, county, councillor and district attorney conventions.

FISKE WARREN ON WARPATH

MANILA, Sept. 26.—Fiske Warren, the Boston anti-imperialist, who has been consorting with all sorts of Filipino malcontents since about 1900, is visiting the province of Batangas, where he is cultivating the radicals and assisting in the campaign of Apacible for provincial governor. He is arousing in the province considerable agitation in favor of independence.

MUSIC AT FOOD FAIR.

The United States Marine Band will be the musical feature of the New England Food Fair and House Furnishing Exposition during the first two weeks of its run. It opens October 7 at Mechanics Building.

HUSTLERS AID PHELAN'S FIGHT

Thomas F. Phelan, Independence League candidate for the Senate in the district made up of Wards 9, 12 and 17, intends to wage a speaking campaign from now on till election day. He will receive the support of the young men's clubs of the district, as well as the united Hebrew clubs of Ward 9. His friends predict that success will crown his efforts at the polls.

At a meeting of his supporters held last evening, at which were present many voters from the three wards, it was agreed that a house to house canvass be made. As each man volunteers to vote for Mr. Phelan a record will be made of the same. In this way it is hoped that a fair idea will be given as to the exact number of those who favor him. All those who are unfavorable will be visited personally by the candidate.

FIGHT FLAMES IN HOSPITAL

A fire in the Children's Hospital at Huntington avenue and Gainsborough street was extinguished early to-day without waking a single patient.

A police officer saw flames issuing from the chimney. So as not to frighten the inmates he telephoned to fire headquarters instead of sending in a box alarm. Engine 33 and Ladder Truck 15 from Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue, wheeled silently up to the building, put up a ladder and extinguished the blaze with a chemical line and a bag of salt.

The policeman had notified the head nurse, and all her corps of assistants were ready in case of emergency, but it was unnecessary to give the patients any inkling of the trouble.

VESSEL TURNS TURTLE; 1 DIES

One man was drowned and three others narrowly escaped death when the Nova Scotia schooner Princess of Avon turned turtle in the bay off Nahant. The rescued men were badly battered by the sea and were numb and exhausted when pulled from the water by the crew of the quartermaster's steamer, Captain Morrison. The Princess of Avon sailed two weeks ago from Hantsport, N. S., with a load of lumber.

Rough weather followed the boat during the entire trip and a sudden squall, coming without warning while she was carrying all the sail possible, turned her completely over. The man who was drowned was Elbie Norman of Hantsport, who was on his first sea trip.

RACING TO FUNERAL, AUTOIST IS HALTED

FALL RIVER, Sept. 26.—Robert M. Fanning a prominent man of Westport, who, with his wife, passed through here in his auto anxious to catch a train for Providence in order to attend the funeral of a relative, was held up by Officers Woods and Davel on the charge of overspeeding. He was taken to the police station, where later he was freed. He missed his train.

ARRAIGN KLOUS CHARGED WITH $8,080 LARCENY

QUICKLY FREED ON BAIL

and his attorney, Francis J. Carney, were waiting for him, having been informed as to the time of his arrival. The entire party entered a hack and were driven to Police headquarters. Apparently there was no worry on the part of any member of the family.

Bail Commissioner Farley was waiting at headquarters. Captain Dugan took charge of the booking of Klous. He gave his age as twenty-nine years, unmarried, coal dealer by occupation, and his residence as No. 119 Park street, Brookline.

Dodged Photographers.

Twenty minutes after his appearance Klous had been released. His family formed a bodyguard so that the coal agent might be hidden from the photographers. Klous kept a handkerchief up to his face. The carriage door was held open for him, he jumped in, slammed the door and was hurried away to Brookline.

None of the family would make a statement.

Mr. Sughrue declined to say last night who was responsible for the arrest of Klous.

ACTIVE LEAGUE FIGHT PLANNED IN HYDE PARK

Labor Men Enthusiastic in Support of New Party Principles.

The Hyde Park Independence League intends to take an active part in the coming State and town campaigns. R. E. Cherrington, who is chairman, is an old campaigner, having been chairman of the Democratic Town Committee when that committee amounted to something. He says:

"Both the Democratic and Republican organizations are in control of the 'conservative' element in both parties. The Democratic machine is dominated by Josiah Quincy, while the Republican machine follows the dictates of the State organization an able local lieutenant."

"I dropped out of active politics a number of years ago because of the way things were going. The Independence League should unite all the old and new fighters who have left the old party ranks because of disgust with the methods of those in control."

Wage Earners with League.

Edward F. Brennan of No. 668 Hyde Park avenue, Hyde Park, is not only secretary of the Independence League of Hyde Park but is also secretary of the Hyde Park Central Labor Union.

"Hundreds of wage earners have in the past voted the Socialist ticket as a protest against the machinations of the recognized leaders of the old parties. Now that the League offers a chance to make a political fight independent of the many entanglements of Socialism, these wage earners will embrace the opportunity. I am financial secretary of Machinists' Union No. 345 and I have a large circle of friends who are in favor of the League and will actively fight for it."

Anthony J. McGrath, the treasurer of the League, is a delegate to the Hyde Park Central Labor Union, and corresponding secretary of Stone Masons' Union No. 42 of Dedham.

He says: "Organized labor has been deceived so badly in the past by political agitators that it is hardly to be wondered that they look questioningly at every political proposition.

Tired of Cheap Politics.

"But when a movement like the Independence League, asking the union man not only to support it, but to come in and officer the machine, run it in competition to the old parties, on a platform which might have been taken from the constitution of any Central Labor Union, there is no wonder that the opportunity is grasped.

"I am sick of the cheap political promises which are being made by the old party leaders to organized labor, and it was no surprise to me that a certain Republican Senator, who was a charter member of one of our Greater Boston Wage-Earner Clubs, was defeated for renomination because he broke his pledge to the club to support a certain measure."

TELEGRAPHERS TO URGE PROBE BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The striking telegraphers will appeal to Congress for an investigation of the two telegraph companies. This announcement was made to-day by First National Vice-President W. W. Beattie.

"Expert testimony will show," he says, "that the general public has been mulcted out of millions of dollars by this combination of telegraph interests.

"All of the iniquities of the commercial telegraph companies were shown before a tribunal which has no immunity bath attachment."

The resolution asking for the investigation will be introduced in both the Senate and the House on the opening day of Congress.

Beattie says that no response has been received to the appeal the Central Labor body of this city made to President Roosevelt that he institute an investigation through the attorney-general's office with a special reference to the charge that the two companies are working in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

SOLD LIQUOR, JUDGE FINES DRISCOLL $50

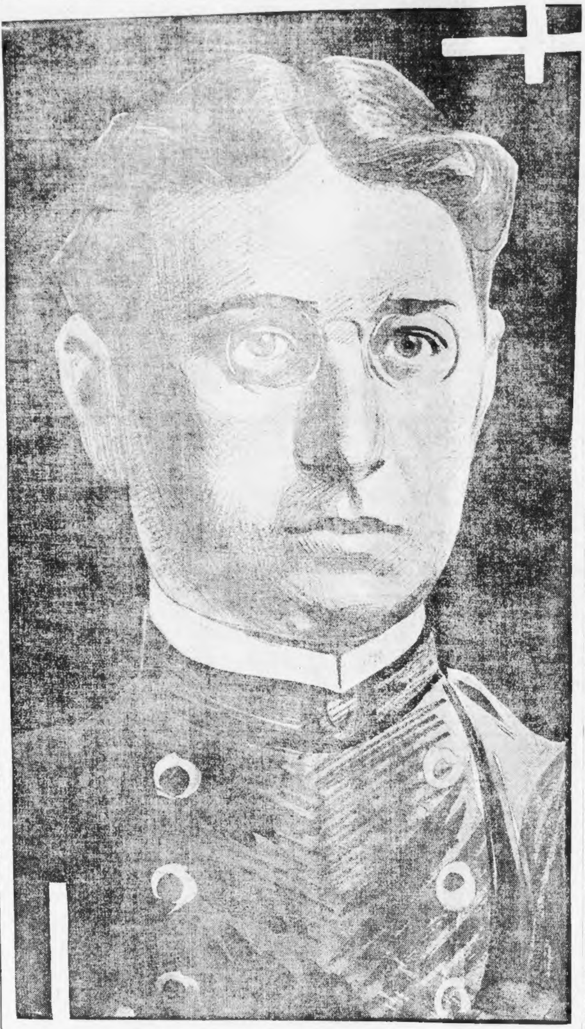
Only Picture of Maurice H. Klous in His High School Regimentals



D O you know why Piper Heidsieck Chewing Tobacco is on sale in every good tobacco store in America? Because every dealers' best customers demand it.

Men of experience know from years of satisfaction that absolutely the finest tobacco in the world is

PIPER HEIDSIECK
CHAMPAGNE FLAVOR
PLUG TOBACCO

There are other high-grade tobaccos, but there is only one Piper Heidsieck. Only the pick of the choicest tobacco is considered good enough for Piper Heidsieck.

That's why no other tobacco is good enough for those who know the delightful, distinctive champagne flavor of Piper Heidsieck.

Costs a little more—but chewing is such an inexpensive habit, anyway, that you might as well have the best.

"The Height of Good Taste"

YOUNG COUPLE RECONCILED BY CO-RESPONDENT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A novel sequel to the divorce action of Martha V. Louise Buchanan against Charles B. Buchanan, son of the millionaire owner of the Planet Jute Mills, was revealed to-day. It is the reconciliation of the young couple, through the efforts of Mrs. Annie L. Wakefield, a widow, of Pittsburg, who was named as the co-respondent.

The hearing before Referee Donald McLean has been abruptly terminated, and Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan are living as happily as two cooing doves at No. 156 West Forty-seventh street. But Chandler & Beekman, the lawyers of No. 15 William street, who brought the action for Mrs. Buchanan, are in the Supreme Court with a motion to find out just where they stand in the matter of collecting not only their own fees but those of the referee, stenographer and detectives.

Mrs. Wakefield, who, according to the evidence submitted to the referee, lured Mr. Buchanan away from his wife, and who has now united the estranged couple, to the discomfiture of lawyers, is the divorced wife of James A. Wakefield, a prominent lawyer.

Great concern was felt over the possibility that the name of the co-respondent might be learned, and Mrs. Wakefield herself tried her hand at patching things up. The millionaire father of Buchanan was not idle in the meanwhile. He changed the records of the Planet Mills Corporation so that his son, who was drawing $20,000 a year, was deposed. This, according to the lawyers, Chandler & Beekman, who were at the time suing for their fees, was a most extraordinary proceeding.

CHARGES BAKERY IS MENACE TO HEALTH

Alleging that Baker Guiseppi Parziale keeps his electrical machinery going night and day, and that his premises are unsanitary, and a menace to health, Carmino Luciano of No. 9 Charter street in the North End, went before Judge De Courcey to-day in the Equity Motion Session of the Superior Court to apply for an injunction against his neighbor.

MAINE FAMILY IS REUNITED AFTER YEARS

ORLAND, Me., Sept. 26.—After having been separated fifteen years, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Oree are reunited and happy. For reasons unknown to their friends Mr. Oree and his wife, a few years after their marriage, decided to live apart. The family was broken up and their two children, Walter, aged two, and Mary, aged one, were placed in an orphans' home. From that day neither father nor mother saw either of their children for fifteen long years. One night the father and mother met by chance. They talked over their early troubles and finally agreed to begin married life anew.

The mother's first thought was of her children. What had become of them? Inquiries were made far and near. Friends joined in the search, and this week were repaid for their efforts when both of the children, now aged seventeen and sixteen respectively, were located, they having been adopted many years ago and were in good homes living under the names of their adoption. As a surprise for the mother the boy was sent alone to the Oree home. When he entered the house mother's instinct told Mrs. Oree that he was her son. She threw her arms about his neck and fainted. The entire family is now reunited and happy.

UNION LEADER IS SENTENCED

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Sept. 26.—Frank A. McGee of Worcester, Mass., national organizer of the Foundrymen's Union, was found guilty on four counts of the complaint which alleged intimidation of non-union workmen at McLagoon's Foundry, in the City Court, and on each count he was sentenced to jail for six months and fined $100, a total of two years and $400.

He immediately took an appeal and was held in $4,000 bonds for the higher court.

Judge Tyner said that the evidence showed that John Dunn, the president of the local foundrymen's union, had been led into the trouble, and decision was suspended in his case for one month.

POLICE SEEK MISSING BOY

BEVERLY, Sept. 26.—Running away from home Tuesday evening because he didn't care to go on an errand for his mother, thirteen-year-old Cecil Atkins of No. 212 Bridge street is believed to be in hiding either in the woods or in one of the closed beach houses that dot the shore. Every one of these beach cottages is being searched to-day by the police.

The missing boy attended the Rial Side School and was a diligent and well behaved pupil. He is four feet six inches in height, very slight in build, is of light complexion and weighs about sixty-two pounds. He wears silver rimmed glasses. He wore, when he went away, black knee trousers, a black blouse and a soft black cap.

"There'll be no whipping for him when he comes home," said his mother to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day. "We'll be so glad to see him that it's kisses he'll get and not a whipping."

LONG ESTRANGEMENT ENDS IN MARRIAGE OF COUPLE

PRUNIERS' SECOND WEDDING RECALLS SENSATIONAL $75,000 ALIENATION SUIT.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Sept. 26.—After an estrangement lasting nearly ten years, Frederick J. Prunier and his wife Melvinia Rivet Prunier have been remarried and the news from Lake Placid, N. Y., where the ceremony was performed, recalls the sensational alienation suit brought by Mrs. Prunier some seven years ago for $75,000 against Mrs. Lillian Ash, also known as Mrs. Lillian Compbell, who claimed to be the widow of the wealthy wall paper manufacturer.

The case attracted widespread attention at the time, as it involved prominent persons both in New York and this State. An attempt to kidnap the son of the couple and a poison plot on the life of Mrs. Prunier were also features of the case.

The Pruniers first came to public notice in 1898, when Mrs. Prunier brought suit for a divorce on the ground of desertion. The case was settled without a divorce by her husband giving her the custody of their five-year-old boy Julian, and promising to pay her ten dollars a week toward their support.

Kidnapping Plot Nipped in Bud.

Prunier failed to live up to his promise, and in August the following year Mrs. Rivet, Mrs. Prunier's stepmother, came from New Haven for a short visit to the Prunier home in this city. Mrs. Prunier went out one day and left the boy in care of Mrs. Rivet, but when she returned a short time later neither woman nor child could be found.

The police authorities were notified, and the woman was found at the depot with the boy, just about to board a train for New Haven. The little one was restored to its mother, but the woman was permitted to go.

Mrs. Prunier suspected this to be a trick of her husband's and had papers sworn out for his arrest, but Mrs. Rivet had gone to New Haven and told him of the occurrence and he immediately fled to New York to avoid arrest.

Prunier Found with Mrs. Ash.

Mrs. Rivet later confessed to the police that she had conspired with Prunier to get possession of the little boy and that Prunier had been waiting at the New Haven station for her and had intended to take the child to parts unknown.

In the meantime Prunier was traced to Fishkill, N. Y., where he was residing at the home of Mrs. Lillian Ash, or Campbell. Mrs. Prunier then began her suit against Mrs. Ash for $75,000. She got a judgment of $15,000, but this was never paid.

It was during the trial that Prunier testified to having given Mrs. Ash massage treatment for rheumatism and to having acted as her nurse and companion on trips about the country.

Victim of Poison Plot.

Mrs. Prunier was then stricken ill and was put under the doctor's care, and one day, after her physician had paid his daily visit, a young man appeared and left some tablets, which he said had been sent by the doctor with instructions to take one every fifteen minutes.

Mrs. Prunier did as directed, but the first tablet made her sick. She suffered from a burning sensation in her throat and stomach, and she quickly called the physician, who found her in a serious condition from poisoning. The police took up the matter but no arrest was made.

Mrs. Ash-Campbell died about a month ago.

'SORROW SHIP' IS NEW NAME FOR REPUBLIC

Many Sad Scenes Mark Sailing of Big White Star Liner.

The White Star Liner "Republic" sailed out to the ocean from the Hoosac Tunnel docks in Charlestown amid such sobs and groans and lamentations as led the officials thereof to call it the "Sorrow Ship."

Nine would-be passengers were turned aside by the ship's surgeon because of sickness among them, refused a passage, while two beautiful girls, turned aside by Uncle Sam under his "Assisted Aliens" act, were taken back across the ocean while mother and father and four brothers and sisters swooned upon the dock in grief that was pitiful to see.

The girls against whom America had folded her arms and shook her head were Rivke Chalaknik, twenty years old, and her sister, Leah, sixteen, who came in on this same Republic a week ago to-day.

Parents Live in West End.

Unwittingly, the young women had confided to an immigration inspector that their fare had been paid to the United States by an immigrant aid society.

They were thereupon sent to the detention station on Long Wharf, and there they remained. Washington denied the appeal of their parents and said that Rivke and Leah must go back. The girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Chalaknik of No. 3 Wiget street in the West End, whose four other children are with them.

"It is only red tape," said the Americanized father, "our friends will get them out."

It was not until a half hour before the Republic's sailing time that the friends of the family gave up hope. Then they besieged the Custom House, fifty strong, and City Hall, and every place where influence may sometimes help, but Washington had spoken.

Barred by Doctor's Report.

The mother was in such a condition of mind that she could not be allowed on ship board. The girls, their eyes red and swollen and their voices gone, cried over the ship's rail. The elder threatened suicide. All that they had seen of the Promised Land was what they could see from a back window on the way from Long wharf to Charlestown.

John Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilkinson came down from Lawrence to sail on the Republic. They were refused admission to the ship because the ship's surgeon found Wilkinson to be far gone, he said, in tuberculosis.

Sailings were also refused to Smith Mortimer, his wife and child, of Blackstone, R. I., and to Carl Anderson and family of Springfield, because of the apparent ill health of the children.

BEAR HUNTING PLANS DELIGHT THE PRESIDENT

Roosevelt, on Way Home, Tells Newspaper Men He Is Out for Big Game.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—President Roosevelt passed through New York on his return to the Capital from his Summer home in Oyster Bay. While waiting for the baggage to be placed aboard his special train at Jersey City the President talked with newspaper men about his approaching hunting trip in Louisiana.

"I do not know whether I will be able to shoot a bear or not," he said, laughingly. "I feel so good after my long vacation that I feel like tackling a big fellow, however. In fact," I have no idea what kind of hunting is to be done. I am leaving all that in the hands of my friends, who have invited me upon this expedition.

"This Summer I have done more riding than ever before, and less tennis playing. I have lots of work ahead of me at Washington, with a few days in which to accomplish it before starting upon my Western trip."

All the townspeople at Oyster Bay turned out to bid the President farewell. One of the citizens carried a big flag, which he waved in the President's face.

Mr. Roosevelt displayed a bit of emotion when old Uncle Jake White greeted him at the train in Oyster Bay. "I want to shake your hand," the aged ex-hackman quavered. "I may not be here, Colonel, when you come home next time."

"Pshaw," said the President. "You're good for twenty years, Jake," and jumped aboard the car. The trip from the Bay to Long Island City was made aboard the yacht Sagamore. The President, Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel and Quentin stood on the lower forward deck, deeply interested in the passing boats, throughout the short voyage.

Officials of the Long Island Railroad met the President at the station, and others met upon his arrival in Long Island City. From there the President was carried in the tug Lancaster to Jersey City, where his special train was in waiting.

Crowds greeted the President at various stations all along the route from Oyster Bay.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The President and party reached Washington while the city was eating dinner; hence he came in for less of a greeting than Washington has given a home-coming Executive in years. Still there were a thousand or two at the Pennsylvania depot, and they cheered impartially for the President, his wife and Miss Ethel as they alighted from the special train and walked to their carriage in Sixth street.

SIX NEGROES ARE DEAD IN RACE BATTLE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Sept. 26.—Officers have been summoned to McLaurin's Station, fifteen miles southeast of Hattiesburg, on the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad, by a race war between whites and blacks.

Six negroes are reported killed and many injured. So far as can be learned here no whites have been seriously hurt, but it is feared that there will be further outbreaks as the feeling is high and both sides are ready for a renewal of hostilities.

The trouble arose at a small lumber settlement where negroes had replaced white laborers in the saw mills. When this action was taken bitter feeling was aroused. There had been much discussion and when a white man and a negro engaged in a fist fight near one of the mills both blacks and whites joined in.

Knives and then pistols and shot guns were brought into play with deadly effect, but as the whites possessed the larger number of weapons they were able to inflict the greater amount of injury. Mc Laurin is in the "black belt" of Mississippi where the negroes greatly outnumber the whites, and if they should organize they would be able to drive the white people out of the settlement.

The officers sent from here are heavily armed and they have been instructed to end the trouble at all costs and to arrest the ringleaders.

Murder Theory Deepens Woman's Death Mystery at Home of Banker White

No Marks on Forehead and Trust Company Halts Cremation of Mrs. Carter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The murder theory has now been added to deepen the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Marguerite Carter, who was supposed to have taken her life in the home of John Jay White, a wealthy retired banker at No. 103 East Fifty-seventh street.

It is now pointed out that there were no powder marks on the woman's forehead, such as would have been left had the wound been self-inflicted, and as a result her body is being held pending a more careful investigation.

The body was to have been cremated yesterday, but a postponement was ordered by the officials of the Lincoln Trust Company, who have taken possession of the woman's papers.

All Mrs. Carter's private documents are in the hands of the bankers, and it was after a close perusal of these that a delay was ordered in the funeral plans and a more exhaustive examination than that made by Coroner Dooley or the police started.

Mrs. Carter shot herself through the head, according to the Coroner's report, in the home of Mr. White about 4 o'clock Friday morning. She had spent the night there, apparently in a frantic attempt to see Mr. White. She was prevented from seeing the banker by his trained attendant Frank Cleeland, who permitted her to lie down on a couch in a room on the second floor, where she passed the night.

Her suicide was not reported to the police until long after Coroner Dooley was notified and went to the house. He made an investigation, taking the statements of the nurse and other occupants of the house, and then gave permission for the removal of the body to the undertaking rooms of Stephen Merritt.

It had been understood that Mrs. Carter directed that she be cremated after death, and on the instructions of the Lincoln Trust Company, the undertakers were preparing to go ahead with the cremation.

Officials of the Trust Company to-day refused to discuss the mystery, further than to admit that a more careful investigation of Mrs. Carter's death was being made and that the cremation had been delayed on this account. It was said that there were no powder marks on Mrs. Carter's temple, such as would have been left had the wound been self-inflicted.

What the papers of Mrs. Carter in the possession of the Trust Company have revealed can only be conjectured. These papers were not seen by Coroner Dooley, but it is asserted that they throw a remarkable light on the tragic death of the unfortunate woman.

BOSTON PASTOR WILL NOT GO TO WORCESTER

Rev. F. P. Johnson, curate at St. Paul's Episcopal Church of this city, has declined to become rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Worcester. That the offer was declined was made known officially to the vestrymen at a special meeting in the Worcester church at which Senior Warden Warren presided. The reason for Rev. Mr. Johnson's declination was that he considered his duty was to remain at St. Paul's. He acknowledges his appreciation of the invitation.

Young Guide, Held for Girl's Murder, to Plead "Unwritten Law."

TRIAL SET FOR OCTOBER

FARMINGTON, Me., Sept. 26.—The Grand Jury has found a true bill against Harvey A. Searles, the Rangeley guide, for killing his pretty young wife, Phyllis, July 14, at Chesterville, and as Medical Examiner Sanborn has stated that he will be a witness for the prosecution, it is now known that the young man has been declared sane and will stand trial, pleading the unwritten law.

Doctor Sanborn has had the prisoner under his observation for some time to determine his mental condition, and while the allenist refuses to make public his findings the statement that he would be a witness for the prosecution is taken to mean that he has found the accused wife murdered all right mentally.

"I cannot say what the nature of the testimony will be," said Dr. Sandford. "I have carefully investigated the mental condition of Searles and will state my opinion when the case comes to trial."

Searles was charged with having shot and killed his wife because of her friendliness with his younger brother. He also shot his brother, and after the crime tried to kill himself. It was said that he was crazed, and it was originally intended to plead insanity.

The trial has been put over and will now come up before a special session, to be held the last week in October.

DOCTOR WEDS PLYMOUTH GIRL

KINGSTON, Sept. 26.—Dr. O. C. Swopes, a young physician of this town, was married yesterday afternoon to Miss Julia May Corey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Corey of Plymouth.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents and was performed by Rev. N. R. Evarts of the First Baptist Church of Plymouth.

WINTER CHILL SENDSMERCURY DOWN IN HURRY

The coldest weather yet this season was experienced this morning when at 7 o'clock the temperature had dropped to 47 degrees. At midnight the mercury registered 51, and it dropped gradually until the low level at 7. At 8 o'clock it had returned to 50 degrees.

Dispatches say that the low temperature was general. A Duluth dispatch to-day says that snow fell over the Lake Superior region Tuesday. There was a considerable snowstorm over the Vermillion iron range. Similar reports came from the towns along the south shore of Lake Superior as far as Ishpeming and Marquette.

CUBAN PLOT CHARGED TO WALL STREE

HAVANA, Sept. 26.—A conspiracy start a revolutionary movement in Cu has been discovered. Under instructio issued by Governor Magoon, a number suspicious persons, believed to be co nected with the conspiracy, are bein shadowed. It is believed that the mov ment is backed by New York capitalist

It is persistently stated here that th money to finance the movement was fu nished from Wall street. There are r ports current that a certain America who was in Cuba recently and spent fo days in Havana, is connected with th conspiracy. The movements of this ma were mysterious.

There is every reason to believe th not more than one general or one prom nent officer who was a party to the pa with Secretary Taft at the conclusion the last revolution is connected with th conspiracy.

There is reason to believe that this co spiracy has been going on for sever weeks.

WHITNEY CAMPAIGN NO. 1

SELL NEW HAVEN
BUY BOSTON & MAINE

In my yesterday morning's advertisement I said, Sell New Haven—did you notice it slumped 10 points during the day?

For years there have been coming to me in the regular course of my investigating business facts and facts and facts which show a condition of affairs in the New Haven railroad which made even my hair stand on end, and I am used to corporation rottenness.

I passed it by: I had other things on my plate.

Since opening up on Mr. Whitney new facts have begun to pour in—ye gods, such facts!

Also facts on Boston & Maine.

If New Haven slumped 10 points yesterday what will it do when the public gets the raw facts of existing conditions?

Tomorrow I will give SOME facts.

In the meantime I advise every holder of New Haven to sell, and not stand on the order of his selling, and to put the proceeds into Boston & Maine. New Haven sells at 142, Boston & Maine at 146. I believe New Haven will drop way, way down. I believe Boston & Maine is cheap today at 200. I will give the situation a blast tomorrow, and will probably decide tomorrow whether on my tour through the State I cannot bring down Mr. Whitney more quickly by giving the Boston & Maine-New Haven plot which I have unearthed, rather than by giving my Whitney bribe pictures—I will probably give both.

In the meantime I earnestly advise New Haven holders to throw over their stock and I warn savings banks and trust companies to look to their loans on New Haven debentures.

Dorothy Dix Scores the Man Who Makes His Wife the Butt of Jeers and Jokes, and Asks:

Do You Make Fun of Your Wife?

EVERY married woman in the country will feel like sending a bouquet to the Toledo judge who has just decided that for a husband to wound his wife's tender tle feelings by making fun of her is just cruel treatment as if he swatted her er the head with a golf stick.

The case that has brought forth this ise and most just decision is that of poetess whose husband made sport of r verses, and who used to make a oman holiday, or any other sort of old oliday, for himself by reciting her pasonate rhymes in a cracked ice voice that re the lady's soul to tatters, and made steners hold their sides with laughter.

Unable, at last, to endure this torture nger, the poetess sued for a divorce on e ground of inhuman conduct on her sband's part, and the court held that e injuries she had sustained to her susptibilities entitled her to freedom gilded ith alimony.

ecision Should Warn

T is hoped that this decision will be a solemn warning to all other bus ands who are disposed to get gay at eir wives' expense, and to make their tter halves the butt of their jokes.

For, truth to tell, the Toledo poetess not the only woman who has been ofred up as the victim of her lord and aster's wit, and who has suffered tores of mortification for his amusement.

In the breasts of many a timid and rinking little wife there rankles a lurkg suspicion that her husband married r for the sole purpose of being able make sarcastic speeches at her exense, and to show off before company ow funny and facetious he could be by olding her weakness up to ridicule.

And there are times when other people e inclined to agree with her, and to beeve that men set up wives as a vent for eir humor, as in old times kings kept a urt fool.

How else, pray, can you account for the thless domestic joke whose point consts of turning the limelight on some istake or ignorance of the wife—makg the family skeleton dance by some aw-hawing man guffawing in coarse irth, while his wife sits by writhing in orture?

Have you not been at dinner tables here the host's entire conversation conisted in telling about how his wife had ade an idiot of herself upon such and uch an occasion?

Have you not listened to the accounts hat some man related of how his wife was rs. E. Z. Mark, and had been taken in ime and again and sold feminine gold ricks by any slick confidence man or oman who came along? Or of how she igned a telegram "yours lovingly," and ot fuddled with her first bank book?

Have you not seen a woman's bargains angled above her head for the derision of he assembled company, while she tried to augh with quivering lips and eyes that umbly besought the husband, who was howing off what a pretty wit he had, regardless of her feeling, to have mercy and ot make her appear quite an imbecile beore her guests?

umor of Brutal Kind

OR, perhaps, the man's brutal humor went still further, and he made merry f the very holy of holies of the woman's oul, and derided her religion as superstition, and even made a joke of her tears and fears and foolish fondness when at some time she was overanxious above his or her children's sickbeds.

I have witnessed such scenes times out of number. So have you, when a man, in trying to be funny, was so cruel and inhuman in his treatment of his wife that we felt that if he told another alleged humorous story on the lady at the head of the table we would take the carving knife to him if she didn't.

What a woman suffers under such ordeals only her own bruised and lacerated spirit knows, but the judge who has held that such conduct on a husband's part is just as bad as for him to come home and give his wife a physical beating is dead right.

There is no other weapon on earth whose wound is so keen and cruel as that of ridicule. It is like the poisoned arrow that savages use, and that leaves a festering sore everywhere it strikes that never heals.

Any of us would rather be stoned in the street than to be laughed at, and we can forgive any offence quicker than to be made to look absurd.

Woman Couldn't Do It

NOBODY knows this better than men, who are universally thin-skinned, and the wife who undertook to entertain a company of an evening by making her husband the target of her smart speeches would very soon find out that she had nothing to shoot at.

He would have vanished. And he would never come back. And he would be justified in becoming a wife deserter, since the very intimacy of marriage life calls for loyalty, at least, concerning the foibles of the one whose weaknesses and absurdities cannot be hidden in the fierce light that beats upon the home.

It is charitable to suppose that the men who thus make merry with their wives' little peculiarities and whose wives' mistakes furnish forth the after-dinner chestnuts with which they regale their friends, do not realize how unkind they are.

It is meet, therefore, that the Toledo judge's ruling, that for a man to make fun of his wife constitutes a form of cruelty that entitles her to a divorce, should come to all husbands in the nature of an eye-opener.

Women have all along held this opinion on the subject. There is no woman so commiserated by her sister woman as the one who is married to a "cut-up," who has always got some killingly funny joke to tell on her, and any woman, if given a choice, would far rather be married to a drunkard than to a funny man.

Women have little sense of humor at best, and none at all when it is applied to themselves. In which latter eccentricity they greatly resemble men.

Be Cheerful About What You Do, and See the Difference

By Beatrice Fairfax

YOU all know the old story about the cow who gave a pail of good milk and then kicked it over, don't you?

Well, the girl who does her duty in a grumbling, discontented way is like that cow.

If you are doing your duty or a favor for any one, do it with a smiling, cheerful grace, or it will be of no value.

I know a young woman who is constantly sacrificing herself for others.

If any one has to stay at home from a pleasure, she insists on being the one. She always takes the least comfortable chair. If any one has to ride backward she is always the one to do it.

This would all be wonderfully fine if she did it cheerfully and sweetly, but she does not. She does it with the air of a martyr.

Be Courteous

THERE is no one so selfish as the one who insists on sacrificing herself and putting others in a bad light.

Be kind and gracious and obliging, but do it all as though you liked to do it, not as though you were a patient, suffering martyr.

No one has the right to force others into a false position, and that is what you do if you insist on self-sacrifice at their expense.

Of course, we all have our dark hours, when the whole world seems awry and nothing looks bright or happy, but those hours are rare and the only thing to do is fight them out alone.

When Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote "Laugh, and the world laughs with you; weep, and you weep alone," she struck a great truth.

The majority of people do not want us unless we can bring them some pleasure.

It is a very natural sentiment. You know yourself what a joy it is to meet a cheerful, smiling friend.

Half the Battle

SOMETIMES the temptation to be gloomy and pessimistic is almost irresistible, but when you feel that way just say to yourself, "How very plain and unattractive I must look with this cloud on my face, and how it must bore people to listen to my gloomy conversation."

Life is not very long, and we should crowd as much happiness into it as we possibly can.

At the end of the journey let us be able to say not how much sadness we have seen, but how much gladness.

I know there is a great deal of sadness that we cannot close our eyes to, but, oh, my friends, there is such a lot of joy also.

Sometimes the world seems to me such a dazzling splendor of joy that it fairly takes my breath away.

And yet many people would say, "You are only a working woman earning your daily bread. Why should you be so happy?"

Perhaps it's just the happiness that comes from health and loving my work and friends.

You can all be happy like that if you do your work cheerfully and take proper care of yourselves.

Make up your minds to be cheerful. Half the battle lies in the desire.

Expert Advice on Health and Beauty

BY THE PROFESSOR

WE have among us a good many everyday causes of headache, depending on digestion. One very fertile source is overeating, partly caused by changes in the blood, but partly also by the nervous influences transmitted from the outraged digestive organs.

Many seem to think that after a long course of self-indulgence the doctor can wipe away all the effects of their past errors, but it cannot be too widely known that there is no such thing as medical absolution. Abuse of alcohol produces a headache much in the same way as excessive indulgence of food.

Other headaches in this category are the billous ones from the use of food which is too stimulating.

Also to be included among the headaches caused by noxious substances circulating in the blood are those due to bad air. The simplest cause of such is imperfect ventilation, by which too much carbonic acid is present in the air.

Among headaches having their origin in a changed condition of the blood, that caused by anaemia or an impoverished state of the blood is very commonly met with, especially among young girls between eighteen and twenty-five years of age.

FOR RED NOSE

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Kindly tell me if there is anything doing for red noses. Mine will sometimes for an hour or two during the day be dark red and then again it will be all right. I am sure that it does not come from indigestion.

THOMAS.

DO you take anything intoxicating? Forgive the question, but there are different causes for the red nose, and as you being a man are not supposed to wear tight clothing, the reason must be other than that. Your circulation is poor for some reason, and if you cannot wake it up yourself you had better ask the advice of a physician. The following lotion will allay the redness, but do not stop hunting for the cause: One-half dram of ichthyol ointment, one ounce of cold cream and two drops bitter oil of almonds. Bathe the nose night and morning with this.

TO BLEACH THE HAIR

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Will you please tell me how to bleach my hair to a very light blonde? It is now naturally a light red, but I would like to have it a very light blonde.

GRACE.

PEROXIDE is the bleach for blond hair, but as your hair is light red to start with the result would be a sickly yellow without any character of beauty. Better let it alone, or if you wish to get the golden tint pronounced in it, use a little lemon juice and a salts of tartar in the water in which you shampoo it. Keep it soft, fluffy and well groomed and it will look much better than if you tried to bleach it.

Signs of the Zodiac Tell Your Character

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Strongly sympathetic, pleasure loving; inclined to extravagance.

Taurus (April 19 to May 20)—Obstinate, strongwilled, somewhat jealous; love of literature; would make indifferent husband or wife.

Gemini (May 20 to June 21)—Never satisfied, restless, anxious; inclined to avarice.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22)—Strong domestic instincts, lover of home and family; an ideal husband or wife.

Leo (July 22 to August 22)—Intellectual, thoughtful, a dreamer; generally poor in health.

Virgo (August 22 to September 23)—High artistic sense, musical, an idealist; well-balanced mind.

Libra (September 23 to October 23)—Lover of excitement and travel; industrious, energetic; poor health.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 22)—Desire to rule; passionate, violent, even as far as murder.

Aquarius (January 20 to February 19)—Faithful, religious, devotional; quiet and loving.

Pisces (February 19 to March 21)—Severe, gloomy; lack of self-confidence.

GOOD OUTFIT FOR RAINY DAYS

MUCH attention is being paid to a rainy day outfit. Coats, especially, can be made very attractive when trimmed with buttons, pipings, collar, lapels and pockets. The person who chooses brown for such an outfit may have shoes, rubbers and cloth uppers which protect her ankles from the rain, umbrella, wristbag and gloves all to match. Her hat should be of rough brown straw, trimmed with quills, and her collar a stiff linen one with laundry finish, and a heavy brown silk veil.

THREE NEW FALL HATS

The top hat is of peacock green, with plumes to match. The middle hat is in two shades of purple, made entirely of silk or faille. The last hat has trimmings of lace and fur, in shades of brown.

Three Models That Are Stylish and Easy to Copy

BY GRACE HYMAN

EVERY woman who keeps quite up to date has added a purple hat to her stock. If you are buying, as every wise woman of modest means will do, in September, rather for to-morrow than for to-day, then let your new purple hat be of autumnal taffetas or even velvet.

A shape that promises to be fashionable for autumn wear, and the only new thing that has yet appeared in that line, is called the "Valois." It has a rather high jam-pot crown, against which ostrich tips stand upright.

Mushroom in Favor

The modified mushroom shape is to retain favor, and either of these looks well in purple taffetas or in velvet.

Purple pansies and trails of clematis are also favorites.

Grapes are good combined with taffetas.

Ostrich feathers for the most stately toilette, and those extraordinary, nondescript, mad-looking plumes for which this year has been distinguished, are also used on the new models, straddling all over the shapes from front to back very often.

Brown Fashionable

Brown hats are also very fashionable and the less vivid shades of peacock blue. This first model is of the last mentioned shade of velvet, with large drooping feathers in the same color and a band of silver ribbon round the rather large crown. Perhaps you have a last season's shape you can cover with velvet or taffeta of this shade. Have your old feathers dyed to match and your expense will be little more than the material and the yard and a half of silver ribbon.

Next is a very simple hat in two shades of purple. The hat and trimmings are entirely of corded silk or faille; the trimming is put on in two large puffs which entirely cover the crown. Anyone can copy this with success.

A New Model

The last model is distinctly new. The hat, a plain round shape, is covered with brown velvet, and the crown entirely surrounded with a ruching of cream net lace. This is gathered tightly at the bottom and allowed to stand up in a double ruffle, the edges of which are finished with a half-inch-wide band of mink.

At one side of the front the head of the mink is caught into the lace and the body of the animal twisted around in a graceful curve to the other side and back of the hat.

SIX TIMELY TOPICS

NEW hose are spotted like the leopard.

Zebra-like stripes adorn the Autumn suit.

The little French kerchiefs are as gay as rainbows.

Coarse pongee will be the leading card for Fall.

An awful wave of unbecoming purple is upon us.

THE TURN OF THE BALANCE

A Thrilling Romance of American Life---By Brand Whitlock

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner.

"DON'T you want to go in the park and see the zoo? There's lots of funny animals back there." The young man pointed with his ittle cane down one of the gravel walks hat wound among the trees. Gusta looked, and saw the people—young couples, women with children, and groups of young men, sauntering that way. Then she looked at the street cars, loaded heavily, with passengers clinging to the running boards; she was tempted to go, but it was growing late.

"No, thanks," she said. "I must be going home now."

"Are you going to walk or take the car?" asked the young man.

"I'll walk, I guess," she said; and then, lest he think she had no car fare, she added: "The cars are so crowded."

She started then, and was surprised when the young man naturally walked along by her side, swinging his cane and talking idly to her.

At first she was at a loss whether to let him walk with her or not; she had a natural fear, a modesty, the feminine instinct, but she did not know just how to dismiss him.

She kept her face averted and her eyes downcast; but, finally, when her fears had subsided a little, she glanced at him occasionally; she saw that he was good looking, and she considered him very well dressed.

He had a gold watch chain, and when she asked him what time it was he promptly drew out a watch.

Their conversation, from being at the first quite general, soon became personal, and before they had gone far Gusta learned that the young man's name was Charlie Peltzer, that he was a plumber, and that sometimes he made as much as $20 a week. By the time they parted at the corner near Gusta's home they felt very well acquainted and had agreed to meet again.

After that they met frequently. In the evening after supper Gusta would steal out, Peltzer would be waiting for her at the corner, and they would stroll under the trees that were rapidly filling with leaves.

Once, passing Policeman Crowley, Gusta saw him looking at them narrowly. There was a little triangular park not far from Gusta's home, and there the two would sit all the evening. The moon was full, the nights were soft and mild and warm.

As in a Dream

On Sundays they went to the park, where they had met, and now and then they danced in the public pavilion.

But Gusta never danced with any of the other men there, nor did Peltzer dance with any of the other girls; they danced always together, looking into each other's eyes.

Now she could endure the monotony and the drudgery at home, the children's peevishness, her mother's melancholy, her father's querulousness.

Even Archie's predicament lost its horror and its sadness for her. She had not yet, however, told Peltzer, and she felt ashamed of Archie, as if, in creating the possibility of compromising her, he had done her a wrong.

She went about in a dream, thinking of Peltzer all the time, and of the wonderful thing that had brought all this happiness into her life.

Gusta had not, however, as yet allowed Peltzer to go home with her; he went within half a block of the house, and there, in the shadow, they took their long farewell.

But Peltzer was growing more masterful; each night he insisted on going a little nearer, and at last one night he clung to her, bending over her, looking into her blue eyes, his lips almost on hers, and before they were aware they were at her door.

Gusta was aroused by Crowley's voice. Crowley was there with her father, telling him again the one incident of his official career that had distinguished him for a place in the columns of the newspapers. He was just at the climax of the thrilling incident, and they heard his voice ring out:

A Changed World

"An' I kept right on toowards him, an' him shootin' at me breasht four toimes."

He had got up, in the excitement he so often evoked in living over that dramatic moment again, to illustrate the action, and he saw Gusta and Charlie. Peltzer stopped, withdrew his arm hurriedly from Gusta's waist, and then Crowley, forgetting his story, called out:

"Oh-ho, me foine bucko!"

Then Koerner saw Gusta, and, forgetting for a moment, tried to rise to his feet, then dropped back again.

"Who's dot feller mit you, huh? Who's dot now?" he demanded.

"Aw, tut, tut, man," said Crowley. "Shure an' the girl manes no harm at all—an' the lad, he's a likely wan. Shure now, Mishter Koerner, don't ye be haard on them—they're that young now! An' 'tis the Spring, do ye moind—and it's well I can see the phite flower on the thorn tra in me ould home these days!"

Gusta's heart and Peltzer's heart warmed to Crowley, but old Koerner said:

"In mit you!"

And she slipped hurriedly indoors.

But nothing could harm her now, for the world had changed.

CHAPTER XV.

ARCHIE KOERNER served his thirty days in the workhouse, then, because he was in debt to the State for costs, and having no money with which to pay the debt, he was kept in prison ten days longer, although it was against the Constitution of the State to imprison a man for debt.

Forty days had seemed a short time to Bostwick when he pronounced the sentence; had he chosen he might have given Archie a sentence, in fine and imprisonment, that would have kept him in the workhouse for two years; he frequently did this with thieves.

These forty days, too, had been brief to Marriott and to Eades, and they had been brief to Elizabeth, who had found new happiness in the fact that Mr. Amos Hunter had given Dick a position in the banking department of his Title and Trust Company.

These forty days, in fact, had passed swiftly for nearly everyone in the city, because they were Spring days, filled with warm sunshine by day and soft and musical showers by night.

The trees were pluming themselves in new green, the birds were singing, and people were happy in their release from Winter. They were busied about new clothes, with riding and driving, with plans for Summer vacations and schemes for the future. They were all imbued with the spirit of hope the Spring had brought to the world again.

To Gusta, too, in her love, these days had passed swiftly, like a hazy, golden dream.

Kinds of Berries

WHAT BERRY IS THIS?

ANSWER: ..............................

ONE of these puzzle pictures is published daily in the BOSTON AMERICAN. Twenty dollars in prizes will be given weekly for the best answers.

The $20 in prizes will be divided as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| First prize | $10 |
| Second prize | 5 |
| Five prizes of $1 each | 5 |
| Total | $20 |

Cut out the puzzle picture each day, write your answer on each, and mail the complete set of seven to the Puzzle Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, with your best suggestion as to what you would like to see in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Where lists are equally correct the prizes will be given to those making the best suggestions.

The list of prize-winners in last week's contest, together with the final picture in this week's series, will be printed in next Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

Timely Tips for Home Dressmakers

Putting Away Gowns

WASH skirts and gowns of delicate material should always be put away in bureau drawers, long boxes or trunks, each skirt being folded in the creases in which it would fall if worn.

White for Children

ONE sees nothing but white these days on both poor and wealthy children. Stiff Swiss is employed for the best frocks, and hand embroidery in coarse, large patterns is in vogue. Low necks have been a feature of the children's clothes this year. In many establishments the cut extends almost to the shoulder, and the sleeves are so abbreviated that they are merely excuses for sleeves. The armhole, a style followed by grownups, is so much hollowed out that it extends almost to the short waist line. As a matter of fact, a fancy guimpe or another waist is supposed to finish off the outer frock. The effect of the blouse then is exactly the same as that on a fashionable gown.

New Trimmings for Vests

WITH the introduction of vests in every kind of garment a variety of trimmings suitable for this purpose has been brought forward this Fall. The latest fabrics to be utilized for these fancy vests are tapestries in delicate stripes, darned with contrasting colors of elaborate embroidery.

Cook Book Free For Choice Recipes

GREEN TOMATO MINCE MEAT

ONE peck of green tomatoes and one-half peck of sour apples, both chopped fine. Add two pounds brown sugar, one pound raisins, one pound currants, the juice and rind of two lemons, two tablespoons of cinnamon, one of cloves and one of nutmeg, one-half pound citron. Boil for one hour. Put in jars and seal hot. It is fine.

MRS. ELIZABETH BROWN,
No. 18 Ward street, South Boston.

ORANGE FILLING

ONE cup boiling water, two heaping teaspoons of cornstarch, juice and grated rind of one orange, two-thirds cup of sugar, yokes of two eggs; frost with the whites.

TOMATO SAUCE.

Melt one tablespoon beef drippings or butter in a saucepan, cook in it one level tablespoon finely chopped onion till golden brown; then stir in two tablespoons flour; add by degrees one cup of mutton liquor (or any soup stock), and one cup strained tomato; add one teaspoon of salt and speck of pepper; let it boil up, stirring all the time; then strain.

LIBERALS HEAR PLEA TO HONOR JOHN CALVIN

Swiss Professor Asks Aid in Erecting Memorial to Great Reformer.

At the fifth session of the International Congress of Religious Liberals to-day in Sanders Theatre, Harvard College, an appeal for assistance in erecting a monument at Geneva, Switzerland, to John Calvin, the great religious reformer, was made by Professor Edouard Montet, dean of the faculty of theology in the University of Geneva. Hon. John D. Long presided.

After praising the great sixteenth century reformer Professor Montet said that a movement is now under way to erect a monument to his memory at Geneva in 1909, the fourth centenary of Calvin's birth and the 350th anniversary of the founding of his academy.

"Influence World-Wide."

In part Professor Montet said:

"We desire to invest this event with an international character worthy of it. Politically, socially and religiously, his sanative and invigorating spirit has breathed through Europe and America, and modern democracies are all, in one way or another, inheritors of his genius.

"The central figure of the monument will, of course, be that of Calvin himself. Around this central figure will be grouped his principal collaborators, Farel, Beza, Knox, etc., and these again will be surrounded by the figures of great Calvinistic statesmen, such as William the Silent, Cromwell, Coligny, and one of the great Puritans of New England and others—all men who were inspired by the spirit of the reformer and had something of his indomitable will."

Another address was made by Professor Otto Pfleiderer of Berlin on "The Tendency of Positive Religions to Universal Religion," followed by an illustrated description of Harvard University by Professor Francis G. Peabody, which greatly pleased the delegates.

Delegates at Lunch.

The foreign guests and delegates were entertained at lunch at the Harvard Union, while the American delegates took lunch in the parish house of the First Parish of Cambridge.

During the afternoon the delegates are to visit the University grounds, buildings and museums and the historic and literary landmarks of Cambridge. Many are to visit Auburn Cemetery to visit the graves of great liberal leaders buried there.

There will be a dinner at the Somerset Hotel to-night given by the Unitarian Club of Boston, at which Dr. Samuel M. Crothers will preside. To-morrow there will be an excursion to Plymouth.

WIFE SUES FOR NON-SUPPORT; BROKER LOSES

Court Orders Blanchard to Pay $8 Weekly Despite His Denials.

Charles F. Blanchard, a commission broker, with an office in the Board of Trade building, appeared in the Dorchester Police Court to-day charged with the non-support of his wife and son, and was ordered to pay $8 weekly.

Mrs. Bessie J. Blanchard told Associate Justice Lewis M. Clark that her husband had given her but $8 in three months. The husband entered a general denial. He said that up to two months ago he had given his wife $8 every week. Then he offered to take the boy and give her $3 per week, but she refused. Then he stopped paying her a weekly sum.

"If the boy continues to live with his mother," said Blanchard to the court, "I will venture to say that the lad will be here in this court before another year is over."

This statement caused the court to ask the son, Charles Blanchard, who is twelve years of age, whether he wanted to go with his father. The lad emphatically replied "No."

The case was continued until October 23, and Blanchard was ordered to pay his wife $8 weekly.

MANY IN PERIL ON WILD TRAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—While Henry Robertson, engineer of the "Nyack flier," on the Erie Railroad, lay senseless on the floor of his cab, with a fractured skull, the locomotive, unguided by any hand at the throttle, rushed on to the Jersey City terminal at the terrific speed of a mile a minute, threatening with destruction the people in the passenger coaches, who were unconscious of the terrible danger.

Not a person on the entire train had seen the engineer put his head out of the cab window, and no one saw the crushing impact of the unfortunate man's head with a telegraph pole.

As the train took a sharp curve without the slightest slackening of speed the fireman, James Fleming, thought that something must be wrong.

MAJOR DREYFUS, ILL, QUITS FRENCH ARMY

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The retirement from the army of Major Alfred Dreyfus has been gazetted in the form of the nomination of an officer to the post held by him, that of commander of artillery at St. Denis. The reason for his retirement is given as ill health.

WANT BERRY FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

At a meeting of the Republican county delegates of Ward 20, held yesterday afternoon at the ward committee rooms, No. 77 Hancock court, the delegation, thirty in number, pledged its entire strength to the candidacy of John K. Berry for District Attorney.

HARD-WORKING SINGERS GIVE OPERA EACH WEEK

By M. B. Field.

The management of the Castle Square Theatre is doing a piece of work for which the whole city owes it thanks.

Nowhere else in New England has a Winter of opera—of good opera—been so generously provided for as here; nowhere else can an entire family spend a more delightful and thoroughly worth-while evening for a smaller sum than in this pleasant theatre.

Each week the company of hard-working actor-singers produces an opera. This means mornings and nights of strenuous preparation.

There is no idling. They are in earnest. Consequently, in spite of frazzled edges on first nights, the performances are singularly smooth and satisfactory.

It is a truly remarkable thing to find such a combination of excellent acting and more than passable singing in the same persons.

Miss Blanche Edwards as Gilda.

Mr. Henry Taylor as the Duke, and Miss Fitzi von Bursing as Maddelene.

The principal players in the company have earned their way to public approval by severe, honest and faithful labor. The public has not been slow to see the spirit of these performers.

The example of Miss Lane and Mr. Murray are in point. They are prime favorites with hundreds. Their presence on the stage lifts a performance from mediocrity. They deserve all the good will that the audience feels towards them.

A newcomer, Forrest Huff, has added to the company much dramatic power.

Mr. Forrest Huff as Rigoletti.

His hunchback impersonation this week is good. With such artists in a company, making no claim other than what is due to conscientious work, it is easy to see why success should be theirs.

Something might be said about other members of the company, but this is not a dramatic or musical review; it is an appreciation, shared by many hundreds, of the fine work done by the Castle Square management.

Of course, there will have to be much harder effort on the part of the majority of the company before the performances are all that they can be. Too many of the singers swallow their words. Ventriloquists can be better understood.

No doubt more experience will correct such sins as trifling with the pitch, moving out of rhythm and poverty of gesture. One cannot have everything.

Manager Masson is doing very well indeed. He is building up an institution of which the city need not feel ashamed.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

The orchestra has been placed under the stage at almost every performance of "The Girl of the Golden West" at the Majestic this week. Blanche Bates is even more popular this season than she was last.

Nat M. Wills is a living example of the power of personal magnetism. Unction just oozes out of him, especially in his new musical play, "A Lucky Dog," which he is giving this week at the Globe.

All the scenes of "The Shadow Behind the Throne" at the Bowdoin Square Theatre are laid in China and depict vividly the conditions there during the Boxer uprising. Clayton Legge and Jane Stuart head the cast.

Lindsay Morison, manager of the Boston Theatre, certainly has nerve. It takes nerve for a stock company to produce such big plays as "Raffles" and "Graustark," but when he sells out nearly every night it shows he guesses wisely in guaging popular taste.

Wright Lorimer made a bold stroke when he decided to abandon the "Shepherd King" and make his fame as a straight actor of strong roles. In "The Quicksands" he proves that he is entitled to rank as a star. He is filling the Colonial Theatre nightly.

Grand opera is always popular at the Castle Square and never was it more to the liking of the patrons than this week, when Verdi's masterpiece, "Rigoletto," is being finely sung.

"The Avenue Girls" and a long list of high-class attractions, especially in the Howard's own vaudeville bill, are to be seen this week at the Old Howard.

It is amateur night to-morrow at the Columbia. Sheppard Camp, Andy McLeod, the Melvin Brothers and Mae Taylor, in the Kentucky Belles company, are there this week.

Lovers of high class instrumental music ought to go to the Tremont this week and hear the Six Musical Cuttys. Gus Elen, the "totally different" comedian comes there next week.

There is something new in stage realism. The climax in the third act of "In Death Valley" at the Grand Opera House has a new idea. It is in a den of snakes, and the hero is rescued just in time to escape their fangs.

Travers, who lifts thousands of pounds with his teeth, is high card at Austin & Stone's this week. The Minstrel Maids have a new lot of songs and dances, and the vaudeville show presents new faces.

A genuine Londonish act is that of Griff, the jestive juggler, at Keith's this week. He is "just over," and there is a breeziness about him that is mightily interesting. He is only one of a big comedy bill.

Volta, the electricity defier, has thousands sitting in open-mouthed wonder by his remarkable act at the Orpheum, where he allows thousands of volts to pass through him, and does many amazing stunts.

"Nature in Marble Halls," with real artists' models posing as the statues, is one of the features of the "Cracker Jacks'" show at the Lyceum this week. Bob Van Osten is at the head of the comedians. As Terplinski said ——

William Collier's second week at the Park in "Caught in the Rain" shows just how much Boston thinks of this clever comedian. Every seat is filled at every performance. The farce is clean, snappy and the best he has ever appeared in. He helped write it.

$90,000 PLANT SHRINKS TO $2

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 26.—The fear that the assets of the defunct Home Realty Company will shrink to nothing before the process of settling up the concern's affairs is completed was by no means lessened when the Home Crest plant, in which the company's equity was listed as being worth $90,000, was sold under the hammer for $2.

Another sensation was sprung after the sale, when it was discovered that instead of a mortgage for $35,000 on the tract, as reported by the company's officers to the creditors' committee, the incumbrance was in reality nearly $12,000 more than that.

LUSITANIA MAKES 525 MILES.

ON BOARD STEAMER LUSITANIA, Sept. 26, via Cape Race, N. F.—For the last 24 hours, ending at noon yesterday, at which time the daily reckoning is made, the steamer has maintained a speed of 22.06 knots an hour. The day's run was 525.

SHOT IN FACE BY HIS FRIEND

BROCKTON, Sept. 26.—His head and arm peppered with birdshot from a gun which accidentally exploded in the hands of a friend, Carlton S. Beal, former city marshal of Brockton, is confined to his home at No. 22 Belmont street. Twenty-two shot, according to his physicians, are lodged in the marshal's face and arm. Mr. Beal refuses to tell much of the accident other than to say a friend who was visiting his house was inspecting a double barreled shotgun which he didn't know was loaded and accidentally set it off while the muzzle was pointing directly at him.

N. H. TO CUT DIRECTORATE.

MILK TRUST MAY INCREASE LOWELL PRICE

Boston Contractor Makes Bid for Supply of Farmers at Westford.

OFFERS 40 CENTS A CAN

LOWELL, Sept. 26.—Apparently not satisfied with boosting the price of milk in Boston and vicinity to an exorbitant figure, the Milk Trust is going into new territory, to tempt milk raisers with such offers as will mean a jump in the price to consumers in other cities.

Westford, whose farmers send 600 cans of milk into Lowell every day at 34 cents for each 8½ quart can, is considering the offer of a Boston man—name withheld—to pay 40 cents a can for the same 600 cans every day for six months.

"Rather do business with Lowell," say the farmers of Westford, "and if Lowell will only meet the Boston bid we shall not shift customers."

The fifty milk producers of Westford held a mass meeting last night. Frank C. Wright presided, H. B. Reed acting as secretary. None of those in attendance would reveal the name of the Boston contractor who makes the forty-cent offer. Some of them admitted their inability to do so. It is believed that the name is known at present to only the one member who is acting as go-between.

The situation is serious to Lowell, whose heads of families are already staggering under the increased cost of living.

William J. Burbeck, a local contractor who supplies most of the trade in Lowell, is not prepared to say to-day just how he will meet the trust encroachment on his territory.

HARRIMAN GAINS AFTER OPERATION

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Though outsiders are not yet permitted to see him, friends of E. H. Harriman say the Wall street wizard is doing well following the minor operation to which he submitted at his town house yesterday. He is expected back at his office in the course of a week.

$10,000 REWARD FOR SAVING WOMAN'S LIFE

KENDAL, Wis., Sept. 26.—John Franklyn, a Northwestern engineer, running between here and Sparta, has received a check for $10,000 with a promise of another for saving the life of a woman at Devil's Lake a few weeks ago. The woman's name was Miss Jenkins, sister-in-law of William Peterson, a wealthy Chicago man.

SCHOONER HIT LIGHTSHIP; IS NOW ON BEACH

REACHES LAND IN TIME

CHATHAM, Sept. 26.—Beached on Lighthouse Point to avoid sinking after a collision at daybreak with the Pollock Rip lightship, the three-masted schooner Edward R. Baird, Jr., of Sullivan, Me., lies here high and dry, but with a bad hole in her starboard side. The Baird was on her way from Maine to New York loaded with paving blocks. In thick weather she ran into the lightship early to-day. Captain Dennett, finding that the schooner was filling, raced her over the twelve miles of sea to the beach at Lighthouse Point.

The lightship sustained no damage. The Baird had on board, in addition to her crew of six, two sailors of the Gloucester fisherman Selma—John Williams and Fred Decker of Gloucester. They were picked up in a dory Monday thirty miles off Maticus. The Gloucester sailors had been adrift three days, having become lost from their schooner in a fog.

100 TRACTION VICTIMS DAILY

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—During the first two months of its administration, the Public Service Commission reported yesterday, 5,689 persons were killed or injured in the accidents of all of the transportation companies in the five boroughs of the city.

At this rate more than 35,000 persons, or an average of 100 a day, are injured annually by the traction companies in New York City. Forty-two were killed in July and August, and 150 others sustained serious injuries which will maim them for life.

At this rate, for twelve months, the total number of deaths would average about 250, and the total number of those seriously injured would reach 1,500. This is the first time in the history of the city that accurate statistics of accidents on the transportation lines have been made public.

Anty Drudge Gossips.

Mrs. Gossiper—"Yes, it's said they will be divorced. And after the way she's slaved for him, wearing out her life washing, and cooking, and cleaning. They say he's stuck on that pert Miss Sinamon, who looks as if she never did a stroke of work in her life."

Anty Drudge—"Oh, but she does work! She does as much washing and cleaning as Mrs. Neverrest, but she does it with Fels-Naptha, and doesn't wear herself out. If Mrs. Neverrest had used Fels-Naptha in her washing and cleaning, she would still be as pretty and fresh as ever, and wouldn't have lost her husband's love."

Does housecleaning mean to you a blistering fire in the kitchen and half-scalded hands? Why not try the modern way—the Fels-Naptha way?

Fels-Naptha soap, in cold or lukewarm water, will make your house spick and span. It will dissolve the smoke, grease and dirt on your windows without scouring—polishing them at the same time.

It will brighten paint or varnish on woodwork; freshen up the colors in oilcloth or linoleum; whiten natural wood floors. It is the ideal soap to clean rugs or curtains, as it removes grease spots and dirt of all kinds without harming the colors.

Fels-Naptha will do your housecleaning better in cold or lukewarm water than any other soap will in hot water. You avoid the necessity for a hot fire, and your hands don't become red and rough from constantly dipping them in hot water.

Then Fels-Naptha is a disinfectant and insecticide. Neither germs nor insects will infest a place where the cleaning is regularly done with Fels-Naptha.

TRIES TO DIE BY GAS; SAVED

Albert Brown, a widower, aged fifty-four years, is at the City Hospital this morning, recovering from an attempt to end his life by gas asphyxiation at his rooms, No. 54 Magnolia avenue, Roxbury. The police rescued him in the nick of time by breaking down the door to his room when the odor of gas was noticed. Brown used a long rubber tube, attached to a gas jet. He will recover.

GIRL BADLY HURT IN FALL OFF CAR

Miss Grace Gals, seventeen years old, of No. 58 Lewis street, Everett, was seriously hurt by falling from an electric car near the Revere Beach boulevard. Her head struck the pavement and she is at the Whidden Memorial Hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain.

LURED BOYS FROM HOME

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—With the arrest of Edward DeFoe, a seventeen-year-old boy, whose head is absolutely hairless, but who has a wonderful collection of wigs, the police believe they have apprehended the person who has been responsible for the disappearance of a score of boys from the neighborhood of Fifteenth and Snyder streets recently.

Young DeFoe, it is alleged, was employed to get boys to work in the linen mills of New Jersey. Ever since the public schools opened, DeFoe, each day wearing a different wig, has appeared about the school buildings and offered inducements for boys to run away. The police have been puzzled over the disappearances, but young DeFoe, in a confession he made, cleared up the mystery.

LAST GAME OF SEASON WITH DETROIT TODAY

AMERICAN LEAGUE RACE.

By W. F. KIRK.

The shades of night were falling fast,
When through the Windy City passed
A youth, who waved above his head
A silken flag, whose letters read:
"Chicago!"

The shades of night were falling slow,
When Connie Mack was seen to go
Through many a street, past many a "square,"
Waving this pennant in the air:
"Philadelphia!"

The shades of night were falling still,
When o'er a high Ohio hill
A French Canadian hoofed his way,
Bearing a banner made to say:
"Cleveland!"

The shades of night were falling glum—
You see, they had been going some—
When Jennings marched through Michigan,
Bearing a printed strip, which ran:
"Detroit!"

The morning that the race was o'er
Three of these men lay on the floor.
The fourth, with mien of perfect bliss,
Waved high a flag that read like this:
"————?"

It's tra la to the Tigers to-day, and may the Pilgrims make the ceremony a happy one for the home fans by breaking that streak of defeats.

The Tigers nearly got the harpoon yesterday and will die hard to-day on the last appearance, as they can't afford to let up any if they want to hold the Athletics from getting away from them.

A clean-up by the Naps, and then another by the Tigers, will not be relished by the daily followers, but it seems as if there was no help for taking the medicine.

If the Tigers get over the scare they got yesterday they will be worse customers to-day and hard to handle. With the infusion of the new blood which appeared good on the first occasion of its inoculation there may be better things in store from McGuire's marble rollers.

Who Will Face Tigers?

Morgan may get the call for the box-work in the windup with the Tigers, and he is about due to win a game. He was showing well against the Naps, but his support slumped. McGuire seems partial to his experienced twirlers and has held Glaze and Pruiett in check. Jennings preferred to try his southpaw Killian against the bunch of left-handers yesterday and hold Mullin over till this afternoon. His star, Donovan, left for Philadelphia last night to get on the scene of the biggest conflict of the year early. He will be put in Friday and Monday against the disputers of the pennant.

Between the Innings.

A crazier bunch of Tigers never whooped it up harder after such a victory.

It looked like a cinch for McGuire's trailers till the batting session commenced in the last acts.

George Winter went along finely for seven innings, when he began to lose the direction of the plate and passed three in the last trio of innings. Two of them scored.

O'Leary turned the tide for the Tigers when he cracked out a double along the right base line in the ninth and brought in the tying run.

The new players, Lord and Chadbourne, made a good impression and did not get lost at the bat. The former had little to do at the third corner and Chadbourne had only one chance.

O'Leary was the star sticker for the Tigers. He hit safely three times up and knocked in two runs.

Captain Bill Coughlin got in the game when things began to hum in the ninth in spite of his bunged up thumb, and with Schaefer back at second the Tigers were out for business.

Winter made a couple of grand stops of hard bounders over his head, and had the little fellow staved off the Tigers in these final innings he would have got a big ovation.

To hold the lead for eight innings made the result look solid, but it was like dashing cold water on the hopes in the last spasms.

The Boston bench was too small to accommodate all the players and one of the Tigers yelled at Cy Young to get up and let a boy sit down.

TRACK AND FIELD SPORT AT THE BROCKTON FAIR

Athletics will again have a prominent place in the big Brockton Fair on Friday, October 4, taking up most of the day on field and track with eleven events and prizes aggregating $535, all in watches. Amateurs of the state have been taking these watches home for five years and come back year after year in increasingly large numbers.

The program is arranged to hit every class of amateur whether he is a jumper, runner or shot putter. The events are handicapped to allow every aspirant a chance to fit in somewhere if he is any good at all.

There promises to be quite a few men on hand this year to try out and allow the athletic managers to see what good they are to their clubs or college. Additional facilities have been added in the training quarters so that every man will have a place and a large tent will shelter the boys waiting for the field events.

The Plymouth county distance runners and sprinters have a chance at $25 gold watches and the county championship for 100 yards and 880 yards, with watches offered as souvenirs to the next two men in each finish. Eight entries are necessary in each to fill.

Entries close to-day and must be mailed to-day to be counted. Nothing will be recognized after to-day. The list of events:

Four hundred and forty-yard run, novice (scratch); 100-yard dash, handicap; 880-yard run, Plymouth county championship; 220-yard dash, handicap; 100-yard dash, Plymouth county championship; 440-yard run, handicap; three broad jumps, handicap; running high jump; running broad jump; shot put, handicap; pole vault, handicap.

JACK 'TWIN' IS FAVORITE OVER BOSHTER BILL

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—With the fight only two days away, Jack (Twin) Sullivan and Boshter Bill Squires are coming down the stretch of their training work for their great twenty-five round fight here Saturday.

Fights have been coming so fast and frequent lately that 'Frisco doesn't begin to talk about a battle any more until it is less than a week away, and therefore there has been little or no betting on the battle so far. It is expected that by to-night the big sporting saloons will begin to record bets, but what the odds will be few are hazarding guesses. That Sullivan will be favorite is generally conceded, but no one seems to have much idea what odds the backers of Squires will demand.

To those not on the ground and having no way of getting the dope from the training camps it might seem strange that Squires should have enough backers to justify a general quoting of odds, but the men who have seen him work feel a great deal like throwing the fight with Burns out of the figuring and declaring an entirely new book on the Australian.

Jim Coffroth, in whose Mission Street Arena the battle will be fought, is one of those who believe that Squires has an excellent chance with the Boston fighter. He talked very earnestly about it to-day as a sort of defense for the match after the bad showing with Burns.

Though he is working faithfully, Jack (Twin) is handling his training in a rather more unconcerned way than usual. He says that he is not making the mistake of underestimating Squires and has heard the stories of the Australian's improvement, but at the same time he figures that he will win surely.

"Squires may be improving, but he will have to improve a whole lot to beat me," remarked Twin to-day between the rounds of a fast sparring bout with his brother Mike. "I am giving him a lot of weight, and I wouldn't do that with any fighter unless I was pretty sure I could beat him under any conditions. Yes, I expect him to make a much better showing against me than he did when he went against Burns, for I don't think he showed his best in that fight. His wallop? Oh, yes, I know he's got one, but did you ever see me hit a guy hard?"

JIMMY WALSH TO CLASH WITH "BABE" CULLEN

Jimmy Walsh is plugging away up at Mike Deveney's anti-Molycoddle Station at Highland Lake for his bout with New York's new comer in the featherweight division, "Babe" Cullen. Cullen is due here to-morrow and the Winnisimmet Athletic Club has has received word from him that he will continue his training over at their quarters.

The New York boy will have plenty of company, as he will be joined by Willie Schumacher, Joe Wagner and Terry Edwards.

Schumacher needs no introduction here, as he is well remembered for his great performances at the Boston Athletic Association. Wagner is a fast two-handed fighter and his equal does not exist in New York to-day at 116 pounds. Terry Edwards, with the possible exception of Kid Murphy, is the best 105-pound man they have over in the "Big Village."

Owing to an injury to Henry Myers's arm, he will not be able to go with Schumacher. The three Boston boys will be selected to-day.

DECIDING GAME SATURDAY.

On the Locust street grounds next Saturday the Neponset-Dorchester and the Institutes will play the third and deciding game of the series for the championship of Greater Boston and a purse of $100. As each team has won a game an extra effort will be made to get the last one and both teams will be strengthened by New England League players.

SYRACUSE, 28; HOBART, 0.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 26.—Syracuse University opened its football season here by defeating Hobart, 28 to 0. Syracuse made no effort to roll up a big score and played the old style game throughout because of the absence of the regular quarterback.

TORONTO, 12; COLUMBUS, 4.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—Toronto captured the first game with Columbus for Class A honors here 12 to 4. Robertaille was hammered out of the box in the first inning, and Seyer almost suffered a similar fate at the hands of Joe Kelley's team.

SQUIRES MAY GRADUATE

BY TAD.

"Boshter Bill" Squires will have a chance to startle the world again at Colma next Saturday. He is to meet Jack "Twin" Sullivan in a twenty-round bout.

This Sullivan person you will remember as one of the famous twins, Jack and Mike. The latter is a welterweight, while the former is a heavy, and quite a fast one at that. They are the boys with the science minus the slam. Neither resembles the Sutherland sisters a bit, both being rather shy of the pompadour stuff and wearing their hair a la Fitzsimmons.

In Sullivan the Australian will meet a man who will give him a good tryout. Sullivan has beaten Tommy Burns and Mike Schreck, and has drawn battles with both Jack O'Brien and Kid McCoy. This affair with McCoy was the one that made the Kid retire from the ring. He fought Sully down in Los Angeles, and for twenty rounds tried every punch and trick he knew, but the Twin person was there like a frozen duck all the way, and had the Kid so tired at the end that he hardly knew where his corner was.

After the fight McCoy retired from the ring, saying that he had lost his punch. The real facts are, however, that Sully was too game and also too clever to be put away, and just took the heart out of the vicious McCoy.

Sully is no knocker-out, as his record shows. He has fought more bouts to the limit than any heavy before the public at the present time, but then a goodly number have been wins.

Squires a Big Mystery.

As for Squires, he's as big a mystery now as when he landed here, about eight months ago. When Billy Delaney called on us the other day he was asked what he thought of the Australian quince.

"Well," replied Billy, smiling, "I know as much about him as I do of Chinese history. I went out to see him kill Burns, and watched him as he put his hands up, and then took another look at him as they carried him off the platform.

"If there is anything in the fellow at all he should show it in this fight against Sullivan. You know Jack is not noted for his wallop, and Bill will have lots of time to meander around the ring and take everything in.

"I hope the winner comes East for Kaufman. Nothing would suit me better. You know I was to get the match with Squires, but he took on Sullivan, thinking him easier than Al."

* * *

Tommy Burns says: "I have quit paying any attention to O'Brien. Jeff has always been on the level, while O'Brien is a faker. I'll bet he won't dare make that crack within Jeff's hearing."

It's hard to be called names, but, like the boy who was kicked by the jackass, Mr. Burns considers the source. That's all right, Tommy, about that faker stuff, but how about the first fight with O'Brien, where you both agreed to box a draw?

A little louder, please; we can't hear you.

The only way for you to get even with the Quaker City gent is to fight him again and give him a good licking. He has offered to fight you and give the proceeds to charity.

You both skinned the people of Los Angeles, didn't you?

What's the matter with fighting O'Brien on the level now, and help out some deserving charity? O'Brien is willing.

What do you know about that?

As for Jeff getting even, O'Brien will give him a chance, too. He says if Jeff knocks him out in six rounds the big fellow can have all the money, and if he doesn't Jawn will give his to charity.

That sounds like a pretty square deal. Don't hear any of you other fakers coming out like that.

SPORTING NEWS SUMMARY.

FOOTBALL.

JACK KEENAN, who played a good game at left halfback on the Boston Latin football eleven last season, have left for New Haven, where he will enter Yale. Keenan intends to try for a position on the freshman eleven.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 26.—Guy Hutchinson, the former quarterback, who coached Amherst last year, has arrived and assisted in the Yale coaching. He will remain here several days. The other coaches on the field were DeWitt, Corcoran, Paul Veeder, Jack Owsley and George Chadwick. College opens to-day and the coaches expect that the squad will be materially increased during the rest of the week.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 26.—The Tigers indulged in their first scrimmage yesterday. Neither the varsity nor the scrub was able to score during the fifteen-minute mixup.

WORCESTER, Sept. 26.—Norwich University played the Holy Cross eleven to a 0 to 0 tie yesterday. Captain O'Donnell started at left end for Holy Cross, breaking through and getting the backs for losses several times. The right side of the Purple line was very weak in the opening plays, and Coach Larkin sent in Palotti to strengthen the side, although this was his first appearance in a suit this Fall.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 26.—Emmett Olcott of East Orange, N. J., has been chosen captain of the Lehigh football team. Olcott has played right tackle on the eleven for several years. He is twenty-two years old, 6 feet tall and weighs 180 pounds. Yesterday's game with Lebanon Valley College was cancelled because the local team has been unable to get sufficient practice. Quarterback Anderson had his nose broken in a scrimmage.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 26.—Lafayette football players yesterday had the first seasonable weather for their work. For an hour the varsity and the scrubs in two teams were put through signal practice and then they lined up for fifty minutes of hard scrimmage. Captain Elliott and Snyder were at tackle for the varsity, with Rogers and Logan guards, McCaa and Kelly ends, Whitesell centre, Flad at quarter, Blaschn at fullback and Conover and Rumbough halves.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The football squad of Fordham was put through light practice yesterday with a view to familiarizing the players with the signals and various plays to be tried against Rutgers next Saturday. Fordham will have one of the strongest backfields it has had in years, both in weight and speed. In the practice Scanlon was at right halfback, and his good work makes him practically sure of the position. Geary was at left half. Great work is promised by Geary, as he is exceptionally speedy and a gritty player. There seems little doubt that fullback will be taken care of by Coffey. Captain Gargan will likely play at quarterback.

HARNESS HORSES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The racing at White Plains yesterday, the second day of the meeting, was attended with two serious accidents. A driver and a rider were hurt and a horse was killed. In scoring for the third heat of the 2:13 pace the bay mare Sincerity lost her head and threw herself backward over the sulky. Driver Robinson was thrown to the ground, and in struggling to regain her feet the mare struck Van Heuten, who was driving Jerry, Jr., and injured him seriously. In the three-quarter-mile dash for runners an accident occurred which cost the bay stallion Herbie his life and may have serious results for Hastings, who was riding him. Just after passing the judges' stand Hastings was crowded and rode his horse against the fence. Both horse and rider were flung headlong and Herbie's back was broken. Hastings was carried from the track and the horse was shot.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 26.—Sonoma Girl, the great trotting mare, captured the Merchants' Stake for 2:24 trotters, taking the last three of the five heats. The first two had been won by Margaret O., but Sonoma Girl came back strong and took the next three straight all in good time.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 26.—Jim Barnes of this city was defeated in a wrestling match by Dan McLeod, ex-champion of the world. McLeod was fully ten pounds heavier than Barnes. Barnes won the first fall in 18½ minutes, while the second fall went to McLeod in ten minutes, and the third in 16½ minutes.

IN THE Longwood Cricket Club members' handicap tennis yesterday, in the doubles, the Johnson brothers, giving 5-6 of 15, defeated Wise and Davenport, 6—0, 5—6, 6—1. In the same round Hovey and Butler defeated S. Beals and Scott by default. In the singles Harry Johnson defeated E. R. Speare by default.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—The Marylebone Cricket Club of England won the match from the Philadelphia Colts by an inning and 173 runs. The English team will begin another three-day match with the Gentlemen of Philadelphia at the grounds of the Merion Cricket Club at Haverford to-morrow.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Philadelphia boxers supplied the bouts at the weekly show of the Wayne A. C. Kid Haney had the better of Young Golden in the windup of six rounds. Hughy McCann won over the Buffalo Sunflower.

WAKEFIELD, Sept. 26.—Company B, with a score of 509, won the shoot here of the Second Corps of Cadets, M. V. M.; Company A was second with 453, Company C third with 440 and Company D fourth with 319.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The National Horse Show Association has added a special class to its list of events for the coming show at Madison Square Garden. In order to interest the keepers of the stallions owned by the Breeding Bureau of the Jockey Club it has offered a prize of $500 for thoroughbred stallions.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Suits for damages against the National Baseball Commission and the Washington, Boston and Chicago baseball clubs of the American League soon will be instituted by Jake Stahl, former manager of the Washington club.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—New York will see Harlem Tommy Murphy in action next Monday night after all. Johnny Oliver, the manager of Gotham's star lightweight, agreed yesterday to have Murphy try his skill against George Decker, the Philadelphia youngster who gave Matty Baldwin such a hard fight before the Crown A. C. of Brooklyn last Monday night.

DEDHAM B TEAM WON.

DEDHAM, Sept. 26.—The final match for the Norfolk polo cup was won by the Dedham B team, which defeated Dedham A at Karlstein in runaway style, 7¾ to ¼.

WAKEFIELD, 4; WOBURN, 1.

WOBURN, Sept. 26.—Wakefield high, by bunching hits in the third inning, defeated the Woburn High School nine here to-day 4 to 1.

THE Winter season is coming. Parties wishing to make money can hire Commonwealth hall, East Boston, which is the best hall for balls, whist parties and entertainments, at reasonable price. Call at 91 Leverett street, Boston or see janitor at hall 52 Meridian street, East Boston, day or night. Tunnel cars run all night.

LANGFORD HAD BARRY GOING

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—If their bout had been for a longer distance, Sam Langford of Boston would undoubtedly have knocked out Jim Barry, of Chicago, in their six-round mill here, as when the contest ended the Windy City boxer was tired and plainly in distress from the terrible punching that his colored opponent handed him.

HANLEY TO COACH.

William Hanley, formerly of Boston Latin and Harvard football teams, has been secured to coach the Roxbury High School football team, and started in on his work yesterday.

DOVES TO PLAY IN PITTSBURG TODAY

BATTING ORDER.

| BOSTON. | PITTSBURG. |

PITTSBURG, Sept. 26.—Some good live baseball is expected in the series which opens to-day between the Doves and the Pirates. When the two nines recently met in Boston the Hub team, although losing the first game, which made sixteen, defeats in a row for them, won three straight from Manager Clark's team.

There is unusual interest centred in the contest. Local fans want to size up Manager Tenney, the Boston first baseman, as there is a strong rumor around town that he will lead the Pirates on the field next season. Local fans would like to see the Hub leader here, as they consider him a first-class first baseman, which the Pittsburgs have needed for years now.

The Pirates are in fine fettle. They cleaned up the Giants, their bitter enemies, in elegant style, winning yesterday's game, the last of the season, between the teams by a score of 14 to 1. They are very confident, therefore, that they will get revenge on the Bostons for the recent beatings they received.

When the Bostons play here nowadays, there is bound to be great interest in the games, because of the number of Boston men on the Pirate nine, and vice-versa. There is always sure to be intense rivalry between the teams on this account, and the present engagement will be no exception to the rule.

Pat Flaherty, the Boston southpaw, who pitched for the Pirates last season, will probably be sent to the rubber by Manager Tenney, while Vic Willis, the former Hub twirler, will probably be used on the firing line by Manager Clarke. With the two trying their hardest to beat their old teammates, the battling is bound to be interesting.

E. BOSTON CLUB TO ENTERTAIN BIG LEAGUERS

To-morrow night the Chicago and Boston American teams will journey over to Noddle Island, where they will be entertained at the rooms of the East Boston Catholic Association by the literary boys. An elaborate programme has been arranged by Billy Delehanty's hustling house committee and everything is in readiness to receive and greet the former and present world's champions.

Among the many features carded to take place are three-round sparring exhibitions, many of New England's strongest exponents of Queensbury art officiating.

Among those who are carded to take part are the Ashley boys of Fall River, Henry Miers, Charles Goodwin, New England's speedy feather-weight; Freddie O'Brien, Fred Sidney and many more stars who earn a livelihood at the padded mitt game.

JOE GANS IS FAVORITE AT 2 TO 1

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 26.—Joe Gans and Jimmy Burns (George Memsic) are down to weight and are in perfect condition.

The fighters practically have ceased training owing to this happy stae of affairs and to-day and Friday will be periods of rest with only slight work to keep on edge.

Jeffries and McCarey will go to Burns's camp at Long Beach to-day and to the Gans camp at Arcadia the following day, to instruct the fighters regarding the rules that will govern the fight. The articles of agreement fully cover these rules, but Jeffries is given authority to boss the fight from gong to finish, and he will have a thorough understanding with the scrappers before they enter the ring.

Gans remains favorite at 2 to 1 and 10 to 4, and there is plenty of money on tap to support him, while the Burns money has not come out of hiding yet, and there is good prospects that Gans will go into the ring as good as three to one.

HOLY CROSS SCHEDULE.

WORCESTER, Sept. 26.—The Holy Cross football schedule for this season is as follows:

October 5.—Williams at Williamstown.
October 12.—Yale at New Haven.
October 19.—Amherst Aggies at Worcester.
October 26.—U. of Vermont at Worcester.
November 2.—U. of Fordham at Worcester.
November 9.—Dartmouth at Hanover.
November 16.—Villa Nova at Worcester.
November 23.—Tufts at Boston.
November 28.—Fordham at New York.

SOMERVILLE GOT A TIE.

Somerville High School played its first football game of the season yesterday afternoon on Broadway Field, West Somerville, and was lucky to get off with a tie score of 6 to 6 at the hands of the Everett High team.

PRICE OF PIE TO BE RAISED NEXT MONDAY

Wholesalers Act and Retailers Are Still Wrestling with the Question.

SIZE OF SLICE PUZZLE

WHY DO YOU COST MORE THAN YOU USED TO?
MORAN
I DON'T REMEMBER

The price of pie goes up Monday.

Most of the big wholesalers of Boston have agreed to this. It is expected that the retailers will take action next and that the consumer will get the raise in the pocketbook before he is able to get pie in his mouth.

Will the restaurant men raise the price a cent a slice? This will be the ratio of the increase in the wholesale price.

Or will they soak the pie consumer by charging him ten cents a slice for every portion of this kind of pastry served with coffee? In that event the wholesaler would gain twenty per cent. and the retailer one hundred per cent.

No Chance for an Even Break.

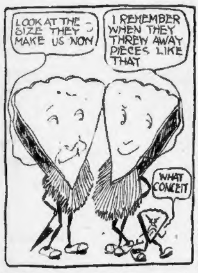
Will the restaurant men stand pat on the prevailing lunch counter price of five cents a slice and cut five pieces out of a pie instead of four, as has been the custom? In this event they would make no more money and the consumer would get a little less pie.

Anyway mathematics are applied there does not seem much chance for the consumer to break even.

But it will be a great sight to see a pretty waiter girl wrestling with a quintagonal problem involving a knife in one hand and a pie in another.

To have an austere lady cashier hold out a little more money will not be a new experience, and it will not interest overmuch.

The wholesale dealers deny there is an agreement. If there is perhaps they might be indicted under trust laws. The laws are great for indicting but appear a little shy on convicting. Anyway, no Rockefeller is filling lamps in prison, and if you buy a Tobacco Trust cigar for a high price your quality complaint goes up in smoke.



LOOK AT THE SIZE THEY MAKE US NOW
I REMEMBER WHEN THEY THREW AWAY PIECES LIKE THAT WHAT CONCEIT

Moran May Be Heard From.

However, the people know that District Attorney John B. Moran is vigilant and perhaps we shall see pies summoned before the Grand Jury to explain why they cost more than they used to. The pies may incriminate their makers, but it's a cinch that the makers won't do that stunt themselves.

The pie, like Faneuil Hall and the Sacred Cod, are Boston institutions and they have got to be protected. They were invented around here.

In England they call "tarts" what we call pies, but there are a number of things Englishmen do not know.

Any party that advocates a pie tax will be unpopular. We would rather let a mean man cut our hair than our pies.

WOMAN DYING FROM KICKS BY PET HORSE

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., Sept. 26.—Kicked senseless by a horse, Mrs. Edgar Jones of this town is now in a critical condition. She had gone to the stable with a basket of corn husks to feed "Dolly," the family pet. When she failed to return her husband began a search for her. She was found lying face down under the horse's feet. She had been kicked in the head and hip. She has not yet regained consciousness.

Cold Piano Facts

We don't make any pianos. We don't advertise any special pianos. We have nothing special to say about any piano in particular. The Piano Trust is fighting us and we are fighting the Piano Trust tooth and nail. We ask no mercy—we expect none—and we give none. Trust pianos are fine, in fact some of the finest pianos in the world are in the Trust, and we sell these same pianos every week at Trust-fighting prices—Lower, away lower by many dollars than you can buy them any place in this wide world. We lose money, they say. Well, that's our business. What do you care? You buy while the fight is on; never mind our losses. We'll take care of ourselves. Come this week and see the fight.

Good Food—Well Cooked

With That You Can Fight Drunkenness and Discontent. Cooks Will Be Great Men in the Future.

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

Admiral Evans, commonly known as "Fighting Bob," of our navy, makes an announcement full of importance, not only to the navy but to all American homes as well.

Admiral Evans purposes to fight dissatisfaction among sailors BY GIVING THE SAILORS BETTER COOKING. He has opened a school for the cooks. They will learn that it is just as easy to prepare food that is agreeable as to prepare the other kind.

He believes that he will keep his men contented on their long journey around South America to the Pacific, and that he will cut down desertions with the aid of cooks that understand their profession.

Not 1 per cent. of the population in this country understands cooking or its importance. We have proud ladies able to prepare very beautiful hot cakes, and soda biscuits, and fancy lobster dishes, and other things that help the undertaker. But they know little, and apparently care less, about the real art of cooking and its importance.

Cooking IS AN ART. The work of the cook is the finishing touch upon the earth's products. The time will come, in a society scientifically organized, when the wretched little individual cook stove, with its cinders and its slavery, will have disappeared, when cooking will be really a great profession, and great cooks will be known, admired and rewarded as they should be.

For the present we must be contented with the system which makes of every woman not rich enough to have servants the slave of her stove. As long as she has GOT to be a slave, she might as well be a good one and get the best results from her work.

It is well for women to know that 25 per cent. of drunkenness could be cured by good cooking. Dyspepsia calls for drink, and usually gets it. The man who has tasted alcoholic stimulants finds that they taste good, and if NOTHING ELSE in the house tastes good, he is apt to go to the stimulant to please his palate.

The French are the great cooks of the world. The Germans are good cooks, although they have not developed the science as highly as it has been developed in France. The Americans, as a whole, probably are about the worst cooks. Of course there are exceptions, and honorable exceptions. There are thousands of good cooks in this country. But that means a great many million stomachs unprovided for.

If the ordinary woman would make up her mind to try to do for her household what Admiral Evans is trying to do for the navy, it would be a bad thing for the gentlemen who depend on the sale of alcohol for their profits, and also a bad thing for those queer, home-shaking things recently so much discussed as "affinities."

Where Can You Get a Good Valise?

This Country Needs Many STANDARD ARTICLES, Widely Known and Reliable

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

Good chances are missed by business men, and the public suffers in consequence. The establishment of a certain standard of merit in any article widely used is of the greatest importance to the public.

This standard of merit fortunately has already been established and is growing more and more reliable in many important lines. The making of shoes, for instance, represents now the most careful development and the most persistent energy, with enormous capital and painstaking back of it.

Certain manufacturers have established reputations in certain lines through the quality of their product and through world-wide distribution. These men have profited, they have been made rich. The consumer has been benefited even more.

It is a most important thing for a man to know that he can buy shoes with a certain name inside AND GET VALUE FOR HIS MONEY. The country spends millions upon millions every year for shoes, and certain intelligent business men have realized the importance to themselves and to the buyers of supplying the need of a standard—reliable, universally known, and to be had everywhere.

The opportunity that makers of shoes and makers of hats and others have seen and seized exists, neglected, in many directions.

To-day, for instance, there exists, so far as we know, no business man who has made himself in the manufacture of standard valises what others have made themselves in manufacturing standard hats, shoes, etc.

Eighty millions of people in this country buy millions of dress suit cases, trunks, big and little valises of all kinds. When a man goes out to buy such an article he is entering into an absolutely unknown field. He can rely, it is true, upon the representation of reliable merchants. But he has no actually well-established name and prices to guide him. He may buy a very expensive article one year, and find that it wears not at all. He may buy a much cheaper one next year, and find that it wears extremely well.

We suggest to makers of valises that any one of them who is prepared to supply the demand for a sound, useful, strong, honest velise, at a reasonable price that will give him a reasonable profit, can benefit the public greatly and make himself extremely rich in a short time. It seems to us that some of the big shoe manufacturers might easily do this, if no maker of valises or trunks feels inclined to enter the field.

The man who is willing to manufacture a good valise, willing to take for himself a profit of one dollar after paying actual cost and advertising, can make a million dollars about as conveniently as in any other way.

Some ONE business man perhaps will see this, and carry out the idea. If he does, we believe that he will make a fortune, and we shall be glad of it.

The Wolf at Home

Containing Many Facts About the Wolf's Social Usages

By Wex Jones

[Note.—This article curiously resembles one just published by Ernest Seton Thompson, and its statements are largely corroborated by the latter.]

THE wolf is a very shy animal. A wolf would sooner die than address a political meeting. I am inclined to attribute this shyness to lack of early training, very few wolves being taught deportment, although there have been isolated instances.

One large wolf was very polite to a little girl, and answered her questions with considerable adroitness, although he meant to eat the child later. [Little Red Riding Hood in a letter.]

The wolf is susceptible to kindness. One particularly large specimen was kept in a cage and at first would snap fiercely at his owner when the latter would enter the cage, but by kindly treatment with a heavy club the animal was gradually broken of the habit. [John Doe in a letter.]

I am firmly convinced that wolves marry for life. I am aware that Richard Roe, an intimate friend of John Doe, and conversant with wolves in many States, cites several instances in which wolves have broken up housekeeping, but in every case I have established the presence of an affinity, and affinities are sad wreckers of homes.

In Manitoba Sir Clarence Colclough Beauchamp was told by a rancher that a wolf known as Big Bill used to wait outside a young Englishman's house every evening, and when the young fellow began to sing Big Bill would howl madly until the song ended. It is noteworthy that Sir Clarence Colclough Beauchamp himself likes to sing, but, as the rancher used to say, there are, of course, no wolves in England.

As a pet the wolf is very pleasant. One in Michigan was the pride of a family, having eaten a mother-in-law [A. Hartless Joke in Puck].

The curious business capacity of the wolf is shown by the fact that the biggest will corral all the food supply, to the exclusion of the weak. Man can do no more.

How Willie's Sweet Dream of Love Was Rudely Shattered by the Other Boy, Who Was Not Bashful

By Kennett Harris

WILLIE is a mighty nice boy who might have been a poet if his parents had not had good sense. As it is, the practical atmosphere of the wholesale boot and shoe house is rapidly taking away his temperament, evidence of which may be noted in his recent adoption of the recrudescent pompadour.

It seems strange to see Willie without the symmetrical part in his once sleek and silky hair and to have his ears obtruded on one's notice. He is losing his illusions, too.

"I noticed her a long time before she noticed me," said Willie, in the course of a few confidences. "I didn't get more than a half look at her at first; couldn't see her face, don't you know. I don't know what it was about her that struck me so, but I felt from the time that she first went by that she was my fate. Mash! Ever get it?

"I don't mean getting it by degrees, like having a safe delivered—skidded off the draw a few inches at a time and then stopped while they put the rollers under it.

"It was more like having the ropes break at the fourth story and dropping the whole blamed thing down on you. You don't feel as if you would ever be quite the same after an experience like that. It's a mash all right.

Clean Gone

"I DON'T know what it was that made me rubber. I was looking in the card index by the window one minute, and the next my enraptured gaze was following a snuff-brown eton suit and a bunch of brown-black hair through the giddy mazes of the passing throng until the side of the building got in the way.

"Then it was like somebody had turned out the gas just as you had got to the most exciting part. The sinking sensation a fellow gets when he's called a flush with a pair of trays and his ultimate chip, and realizes it. You know how you'd feel if you dropped a five-dollar gold piece over the side of the ferry by accident in the early part of the week. A sort of an eternal goneness, don't you know?

"There were skirts passing that window at the rate of thirty a minute; pink skirts, blue skirts, gray skirts, white skirts, all kinds. I'd seen brown skirts enough to fill ten illustrated pages of a small order catalogue, without a tremor; but in this particular one there was the real thing. The hunch I got was right in the fifth rib on the left-hand side of my structure. And she was gone.

"So was I—the worst way. After a while Tommy Waters called out to me to know if I was sick, and I looked up and saw that the boys were putting on their coats to go home.

"Next evening I found I needed to look up that card index again. I didn't have the least hope of anything, but I was there just the same with one corner of my eye jutting out through the plate glass and my heart fluttering like a decapitated chicken. All of a sudden I stopped breathing. 'Twas she!

"I got a little more for memory to dwell lovingly on that time. Talk about your little pocket sized queens! Talk about walking! Talk about shape! Elegance! Well, it wasn't any wonder!

Waits a Month

"A MONTH went by. So did she—every evening, 5:23 o'clock, to the tick, almost. Sometimes I got a glimpse of a rosy, rounded cheek, sometimes a pink ear tip with a cunning little curl blowing against it or a gleam of white neck. Move a little one side while I sigh.

"At last I saw her profile. It was all my fancy painted it and the rest natural color. A week later my fondest hopes were realized. She raised her eyes and for one fleeting instant they met mine. Only an instant, for I turned mine away. Not for a farm would I have caused her a moment's embarrassment. But say! Do you know what that revelation of limpid soul depths did for me? Not a thing!

"Was I there next evening? Possibly. But no shy, timid glance for William. It was what I expected of her, bless her! No, she toddled along as if I wasn't on earth. She didn't know that there was an adoring heart's affinity so close to her she could have touched him with an eight-fot pole, or if anything told her that she had been my one dream for the long end of the Summer she didn't let on. And she went by at 5:23 and I wasn't free till 5:30. But some day we would meet.

Dream Ends

"KNOW that bow-legged beast Simpkins? Pie-faced person. No? Well, Simpkins got wise to my schedule, I guess. Anyway, he came up one evening when I wasn't looking at him and breathed in my ear.

"'She's certainly all to the syrup pitcher,' he said.

"'What are you babbling about?' I asked, haughtily.

"'The damosel with the music-roll lunch box,' he replied.

"'I didn't notice,' I said coldly.

"Next evening he was at the window.

"The next evening following he wasn't. He was out on the street. I saw her come along, and I saw that brazen brute follow her for a few yards and then deliberately remove his hat and offer her a handkerchief.

"Did she call for help? Why, no, I don't think she did. I opened the window reckless of all consequences and looked out, but I heard no screams. They walked to the corner together, apparently conversing and I don't know how much farther, because they turned it.

"What do you think of that?"
